

Hopes Dim for 3-Power Laos Commission

Urges Aid to 14.2 Million People Over 65

Congress Approval Is Asked Insurance Plan Is Linked to SS

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today urged Congress to approve a controversial health insurance program for 14.2 million Americans 65 or older. It would be financed by an increase in Social Security taxes.

In a special message to Congress dealing with the "harsh consequences" and sometimes crushing cost of ill health, Kennedy also recommended more federal spending to provide separately for:

An increase in community health services and facilities such as nursing homes, nursing aid and expansion of hospital research and development; training of more doctors and dentists through federal scholarships; a broader health care program for children and youth; more vocational rehabilitation training of the disabled; and expansion of medical research.

Health Key to Future
"The health of our nation," the President said, "is a key to its future—to its economic vitality, to the morale and efficiency of its citizens, to our success in achieving our own goals and demonstrating to others the benefits of a free society."

Terming it a matter of national concern, Kennedy said: "The dramatic results of new medicines and new methods—opening the way to a fuller and more useful life—are too often beyond the reach of those who need them most."

More Go to Hospital
"Those among us who are over 65—16 million today in the United States—go to the hospital more often and stay longer than their younger neighbors," he added. "Their physical activity is limited by six times as much disability as the rest of the population, that of persons under 65—but their annual income is only half as high."

The health insurance program Kennedy proposed for the aged—similar in principle to the one he tried unsuccessfully to put through Congress last year as a member of the Senate—would apply to 13.7 million over 65 who are under the Social Security program, and to about 500,000 under the Railroad Retirement pension program, administration officials said.

They said further the proposed increase in Social Security taxes, including bigger levies under the railroad program, would pay out about $1.1 billion in health insurance benefits in 1963, the first full year of operation.

Recommendations

As for the other health measures Kennedy recommended, the (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Statement Is Due On Plumbing Law, Rider's Charges

A statement pertinent to enforcement of the local plumbing code and contradicting that made by W. L. "Dick" Rider, of 115 Lounsberry Place, at Tuesday night's Common Council meeting is due to be made soon, probably on Friday, it was decided at a special Wednesday night session of the Examining Board of Plumbers.

Rider, who was the 1957 Economy Party candidate for mayor, told the aldermen that enforcement of the code, as it affects fuel and appliance merchants, will put them out of business. He asked for a special council investigating committee, and one was appointed.

Details of the proposed statement were not available today, but it was learned that it will generally contradict Rider and cite sections of both the general city law and powers of the plumbing board plus provisions of the code.

Plumbing Inspector Charles J. Kelly announced last Dec. 20 that provisions of the state building and construction code were to become effective locally Jan. 1. The city approved the state code in 1954.

Rider noted that certain installations have been permitted in the past among fuel and appliance dealers. He felt that the city was already losing business, and enforcement of the plumbing code would cause the loss of many more. The National Plumbing Code, he said, warns against "arbitrary and capricious action of this kind."

Record Snow Pelts Three States

Sun, Mercury Give Hand As Dixie Areas Dig Out

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sunny weather and rising temperatures lent a hand today as Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia dug out from a record snowfall that all but paralyzed the hardest hit areas.

Schools were closed in hundreds of localities in the three states. Two Virginia highways deaths were attributed to the storm.

Enormous Task Ahead

The arrival of sunny skies and higher temperatures—expected to reach into the mid-40s—were helping some, but highway crews faced the enormous task of clearing roads.

Main highways were opening and traffic moving, but secondary routes were yet to get attention. Even as the Weather Bureau reported the coastal low which brought so much snow, sleet and rain to the three-state area had moved well out to sea, it predicted increasing cloudiness and more snow for the mountain sections Saturday night.

Isolated Prior to Storm

Northern West Virginia had 11 inches of new snow atop 31 inches left from earlier storms. State roads officials said 20 per cent of the Jefferson-Berkeley-Morgan County area was isolated prior to the most recent storm. They said it will be several days before secondary routes are opened to traffic.

Depths up to 18 inches fell across a stretch up the Shenandoah Valley and into northern Virginia, adding a fresh layer to last week's storm. Combined depths in some places measured 29 inches, and winds pushed drifts of four and five feet across roads.

Western Maryland had its heaviest snowfall of the season. Cumberland, a city of 45,000 has had 60 inches of snow since Dec. 11.

'Worst Winter Yet'
The official weather observer there, Robert R. Golden, said it was "the worst winter I remember."

A state of emergency was declared at Hagerstown, Md., where 15 inches fell and the roofs on two industrial storage buildings collapsed.

West Virginia National Guardsmen were called out to help dig the Preston County town of Terra Alta out of the snow. Another 12 inches of snow brought the accumulation to two feet along the West Virginia-Maryland-Pennsylvania border.

North Carolina escaped the brunt of the storm except across the Northern Piedmont. Depths in North Carolina ranged from 1/2 inch to 2 1/2 inches in the Black Mountain-Ridgecrest area to 6 inches in the West Jefferson area.

BPW Considers Asking State to Help on Snow

Consideration of a move that would ask state aid for Kingston and other area communities to cover losses due to heavy snow was proposed at a Wednesday night Board of Public Works meeting.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel asked consideration of a resolution to be forwarded to Gov. Rockefeller, to note in effect that "Kingston along with many other cities in this section of the state and in the Hudson Valley have suffered severe financial set-backs" due to heavy snowfall.

The resolution, he proposed, should ask for appointment of a committee named by the governor's office, to investigate the plight of the communities hit by the heavy snow. The mayor indicated that the letter should be on its way to Albany before the end of the week. City snow removal costs will be included.

Need for replacement of public works equipment was discussed by the board and the

Advises Soper To Write State DPW

Location of the proposed new Rondout Creek Bridge is a factor in determining the feasibility of building a new school in the Hasbrouck Park area, Mayor Edwin F. Radel advised in a letter Wednesday to the education board, and Dr. Earl F. Soper, school superintendent.

Contact should be made with the state public works department by the education board, the mayor suggested, in an effort to determine as soon as possible where the bridge is to be located.

Would Note Expenditure

Urban renewal and the city's comprehensive plan, are also dependent upon this knowledge, and he advised that state public works officials should be informed that the education board plans to spend $1,000,000 in the downtown area for a school, and the board should inform state officials that they do not wish the site and investment to be placed in jeopardy.

Surveys pertinent to relocation of the bridge have been under way for some time, and data apparently has not been compiled to the extent of indicating a location for the new span. It has been indicated, however, that several sites are being considered, including one in the lower Hasbrouck Avenue area.

No Site Named, He Is Told

The mayor said he learned from the office of Kurt G. Rader, district state engineer at Poughkeepsie, that no site has been named. He said he was told, however, that the project is one of high priority, and "some estimate that it will be completed within the next five years."

2 Groups Differ On Trading Land For Ski Center

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—One legislative committee backs and another opposes the proposed expansion of a private ski center on Forest-Preserve land in the Catskills.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Winter Tourist Business endorsed Wednesday a constitutional amendment to permit the Hunter Mountain Development Corp. to lease state land for expansion of its facilities at Hunter.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources as well as the State Conservation Department previously opposed the proposal.

The winter-tourist committee stipulated, however, that the lease be subject to the approval of the state conservation commissioner and that the ski resort deed to the state an acreage equal to that intended for expansion. The deed land would be added to the Forest Preserve.

The proposed amendment went through the 1960 Legislature with little opposition. If the 1961 session approves, it would be on the November ballot.

3 Firemen Promoted, 2 Are Added to Force

Three fire department promotions and two appointments of firemen, both provisional, were approved by the fire board in special session Wednesday night.

Capt. Edwin P. Murphy, of 37 Smith Avenue was promoted to the rank of Deputy Chief to succeed Harold A. Sanford, of 40 Shufeldt Street, who retired Feb. 1.

Lt. Robert F. Schatzel, of 36 Navara Street, was promoted to the rank of captain and a lieutenant was made permanent for Joseph J. Miles, of 36 Andrews Street.

Alfred G. Stengel, of 288 Linderman Avenue, and James McLaine Longendyke, of 50 Germantown Street, were named firemen.

Records of 3 Promoted

Murphy was appointed a fireman in December, 1941. He served with the armed forces in World War 2 from September, 1942 to February, 1945, and became a captain in the department in February of 1947.

Schatzel was named a fireman in February, 1947. He had served in the U. S. Army from June, 1942 to November, 1943. He was named a fire department lieutenant in November, 1959.

Miles has been in the department since December, 1941. A veteran of World War 2, he served in the U. S. Navy as a fire fighter. He joined the service in April, 1944, and returned to duty with the fire department in August, 1945.

About 2 New Men

Stengel, one of the new firemen, served two years with the U. S. Army in World War 2. He was stationed in Europe. He is a graduate of School No. 2 and Kingston High School, and attended the University of the State of New York three years studying commercial art and interior decorating. He is a member of the Wiltwyck Volunteer Company, the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club, and Masonic Lodge No. 10 F.&A.M. He had been self employed as a painter. Longendyke, formerly employed in the machine shop of Electrol, Inc., is a graduate of School No. 2, the MJM School and Kingston High School. He is a member of the Kingston Power Boat Association, Rescue Hook & Ladder Company, and the 50 Club.

Lists Are Lacking

The fire department lacks eligibility lists for appointments and promotions. A civil service examination for appointment of firemen is slated for Feb. 18. The date of a promotional test is expected to be announced soon.

Appointment of the two new firemen on a provisional basis becomes effective immediately. The promotions become effective Feb. 18.

156th Artillery Practice Alert Successful Test

The Kingston and Poughkeepsie units of the First Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery, New York Army National Guard, conducted a two-county test alert for all personnel Wednesday evening which was declared successful and completely satisfactory by the commanding officer.

The test which was called "Operation Minuteman" was initiated by Lt. Col. Marx from his home in Poughkeepsie. It set in motion a prearranged alert notifying all personnel by telephone, radio, fire signals, and other means to report to their army stations immediately.

Agreement By Soviet Unlikely

Thompson, Rusk To Confer Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Kennedy administration officials were reported today to have virtually given up hope of getting Soviet agreement to revival of a three-power international control commission for Laos.

That is the basis for a Western formula for ending the war in Laos and uniting the Southeast Asian country under a policy of neutrality.

Look to Envoy's Word

President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk looked to Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, just home from Moscow, for the latest word on Soviet Premier Khrushchev's attitude toward this and other issues in conflict between the Soviet Union and the Western powers.

Thompson scheduled an afternoon appointment with Rusk. In advance of that session, he was meeting with other officials in the State Department.

Thompson arrived Wednesday night for two weeks of top-level consultation on U.S.-Soviet relations in an effort to find ways of easing tension and improving contacts between Washington and Moscow. But the focus of interest as he settled down for a long round of conferences was more on U.S.-Soviet conflict than on the hope of improvement.

U.S. officials are privately disappointed that Khrushchev's recent assurances to Kennedy of a desire for better relations have not, in their view, resulted in easing such crises as those in Laos and the Congo.

Kennedy met with Rusk and other foreign policy and military advisers for more than two hours Wednesday on the Laos dispute. It is understood they decided there was little prospect for Soviet agreement to the plan to revive the control commission composed of India, Canada and Poland. They therefore decided it was urgent to look into other approaches.

May Form Neutral Body

One alternative to be explored with other friendly governments in the next few days, it is understood, is creation of a committee of strictly neutral powers with neither Communist nor Allied governments represented. Such a move probably would command considerable support in world public opinion whatever Moscow might think about it.

The cold war conflicts over Laos and the Congo are key issues in the consultations now starting here. They apparently take precedence in administration thinking over the possibility of an early meeting between Kennedy and Khrushchev. However, that possibility and Thompson's first hand report on Khrushchev's interest in such a meeting were certain to be discussed.

Two-Hour Discussion

Kennedy spent more than two (Continued on Page 6, Col. 5)

Pickets Would Be Employes Only if Bill Goes Through

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Assemblyman Willard C. Drumm, R-Columbia, has introduced a measure that would ban organizational picketing by unions in New York State.

Many business organizations long have supported such legislation. The bill would bar unions from picketing employers unless the union represented his employees.

It also would be illegal to picket for the purpose of forcing an employer to recognize a union, or for forcing employees to accept or select a union as their bargaining agent.

Other bills introduced in the Legislature would:

1. Permit paid firemen to join labor unions (Assemblyman John L. Ostrander, R-Saratoga)

2. Provide a $40-million bond issue to build low-rent housing for persons over 60 (Sen. William T. Conklin, R-Brooklyn)

3. Write into law the present New York State Racing Association ban on persons under 16 attending race tracks (Assemblyman Joseph J. Dowd, D-Brooklyn)

The bill also would apply to steeplechases and harness races. In August 1958, Saratoga Race Track opened its doors to children for one day before the racing association set its rule.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Communists and anti-Yankee followers of Fidel Castro have big trouble in Sao Paulo, because the Paulistas are the Yankees of Latin America.

Sao Paulo, full of bounce, is in the midst of a boom that can be braked only by problems of the federal Brazilian government.

Unless Brazil's runaway inflation interferes, Sao Paulo will be the beacon city of all Latin America, an example to all the rest of what people can do for themselves without depending upon U.S. taxpayers.

Six years ago, when Janio Quadros, Brazil's new president, took over as governor of Sao Paulo State, its capital was near bankruptcy. Quadros gave it an intelligent administration, although he lacked sufficient control of the city itself to mend old habits of graft and corruption.

Population Like Chicago

Today this city of skyscrapers and buzzing energy claims a population equal to Chicago's and it is growing rapidly. Soon it is likely to outstrip Buenos Aires and become the largest city in Latin America.

There are about 5,000 American citizens living in Sao Paulo State, and Americans and American companies have invested a billion dollars here. That is two-thirds of the total U.S. investment in all Brazil. The Americans here constitute one of the largest overseas U.S. communities in the world.

Sao Paulo State is the financial center of Brazil. Its banks make 40 per cent of the nation's industrial and commercial loans. It has Brazil's busiest port, Santos. It is the country's leading agricultural state. Its more than 26,000 industrial establishments employ a third of Brazil's industrial labor. It produces and consumes more electric power than any other Brazilian state.

Sao Paulo has less than 18 per cent of Brazil's population, but it contrives half the gross national product.

Paulistas are enormously proud that Brazil is producing its own motor vehicles. Brazil produced 134,598 in 1960, mostly in Sao Paulo. But the automobiles are priced so high that they are completely out of the export market. Heavy taxation and big profits make it hard for the domestic market to absorb them.

State Has Problems

The state has its problems. The landlord system still exists in the countryside. Many peasants live at subsistence levels. The state has a heavy steady influx of other peasants beating their way down from the extremely depressed northeast, and these increase the slums and poverty. There is still insufficient skilled labor because the city and state are expanding so fast that they outrun the supply.

To attack the problems and to make development of the state and its capital orderly, the state government under Gov. Carvalho Pinto has a long-range "plan of action," which contemplates pouring millions into projects in the next four years.

Why We Say--

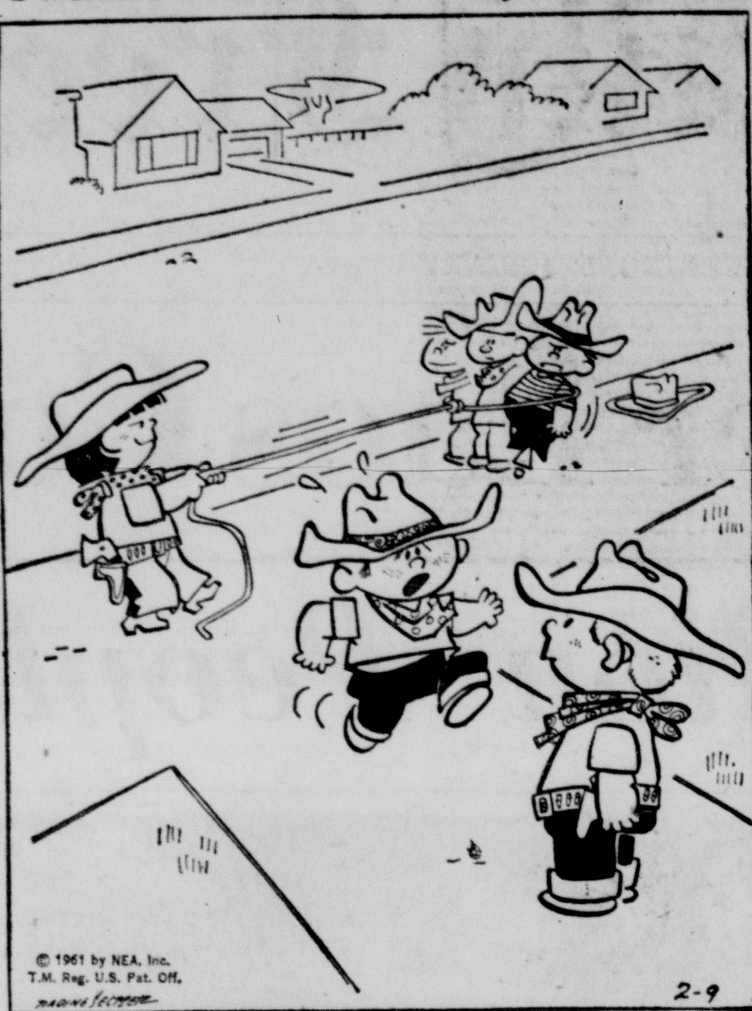

GLOSS EGG: When we put aside a sum of money, we might call it a nest egg. This name is in allusion to the glass egg put in the chicken coop to try to induce the hen to add to it by laying a real one. The custom, oddly enough, can be traced all the way back to 1611 in literature.

Firemen Plan '61 Program; Dinner, Fireworks Listed

Members of the Kingston Paid Fire Fighters' Benevolent Association Inc. at a regular meeting Monday night at Central Fire Station adopted a program for 1961 which includes continued support of the Ulster County TB and Heart Chapter Association, the annual Fourth of July fireworks display and a testimonial dinner.

The association will stage the annual fireworks event at the Dietz Memorial stadium, and plans are underway to present a bigger display than any held in the area. Joseph Godin, president of the Interstate Fireworks Co., attended the meeting and presented a filmed preview of the 1961 display.

The firemen noted that heart disease is one of the most deadly and time, money and experienced people are needed to find a cure. It was emphasized that the program of the TB and Heart Chapter Association is most important to all fire fighters as the disease is one of the biggest takers of life in the fire service.

Firemen pledged continued support to the local Heart Chapter, which they said renders numerous services in the community and it is the association's intention to assist in any way possible to inform all area residents of the endeavors and program of the chapter.

Plans are being formulated for a testimonial dinner to be held soon to honor former Deputy Chief Harold A. Sanford and Fireman Edward Noble, who recently retired from the Kingston Fire Department, and Fireman Clarence Maines who expects to retire soon. Fireman Walter Madajewski also will be honored at the dinner upon completion of 25 years of service.

First Sour Note of JFK Rule

McNamara Is Caught In Middle of Gap

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The McNamara band blew a sour note. The Kennedy administration is now in its first real public relations snafu because of an old Washington custom—a background news conference—which backfired. This one dealt with the "missile gap."

Tries to Back Away
It was called by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, the former Ford Company president who, being new and not yet sophisticated in Washington politics, stuck his neck out by saying "he doesn't think there is a missile gap."

President Kennedy tried to back away in a hurry from what McNamara said.

There are three kinds of news conferences here:

1. The wide open kind where the speaker can be quoted and identified.

2. The off-the-record type in which nothing that's said can be reported.

3. The background where the speaker can't be identified or directly quoted and reporters must state on their own what he said.

High officials in the Eisenhower, Truman and Roosevelt administrations used backgrounders when, for one reason or another, they wanted to give out information without having it attributed directly to them.

Some backgrounders are flops, producing little news. Some are useful in getting information to the public. Some are an abuse of news by letting a public official hide by anonymity if what he says gets a bad public reaction.

The Kennedy administration has made it plain it intends to give out information—so long as it does not endanger the country—through open news sessions and backgrounders.

Sore Subject for Years
McNamara called his background Monday to inform newsmen on defense studies being made by his band of new aides. One of them involves missiles, a sore political subject for years.

Newsmen were told nothing Mc-

Namara said could be attributed to him, the meeting place (in the Pentagon) couldn't be mentioned, and there was not even to be any indication the information from McNamara came from a background at all.

For years Democrats expressed worry the Eisenhower administration was letting the Russians get ahead in missile production.

Even President Eisenhower's defense secretary, Neil H. McElroy, a little over a year ago said this country would be lagging behind Russian missile output for three years.

And during the 1960 presidential campaign, critical of the Eisenhower administration, Kennedy referred to the "missile gap."

GOP Quick to Act
Then suddenly on Monday McNamara, talking at his background about missile studies going on, said he doesn't think there's a gap or that the Russians have more missiles than the United States.

This was reported in Tuesday morning's newspapers without, of course, any reference to McNamara as the spokesman. But a politically wiser man than McNamara might have realized this:

The Republicans, long-tormented by Democratic jibes, would seize on what McNamara said to protest: I told you so. They promptly did and, into the bargain, demanded Kennedy apologize for what he said in the campaign.

Until the Republicans sounded off Tuesday there was no hint McNamara had made Kennedy feel uncomfortable. But then late Tuesday Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, called newsmen into his office to tell them:

The news stories, based on McNamara's background, were inaccurate.

Up to this point McNamara still remained anonymous, but the New York Herald Tribune revealed he was the one who said he didn't think there was a missile gap. Everything was out in the open now.

And Wednesday at his own news conference Kennedy said, after a talk with McNamara, that:

Vital Point Remains
"McNamara said no study has been concluded in the Defense Department which would lead to any conclusion at this time as to whether there is a missile gap or not."

If this was meant to say McNamara and his band—because their missile studies are incomplete—are not justified in denying a missile gap, then perhaps they aren't.

But, justified or not, McNamara said it and reporters heard him say it.

Weiner, Newburgh, Harry Raker, Poughkeepsie, and Louis Ritter, Beacon, directors; M. Jerome Rieger, Newburgh, treasurer; Victor Sullivan, Albany, past president of the New York State Home Builders Association and incoming regional vice president of the National Association of Home Builders, installing officer, told 100 members and their wives the building industry is the largest single factor in the economic life of New York State. President Cunningham, whose real estate office is at 202 Fair Street, pledged continued service to the building industry and told the group in years ahead there will be an increasing need for homes in Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan and Orange Counties. He advised members of the homebuilding industry they must keep aware of new products on the market and reported the industry must take the lead in introducing these products to insure home buyers the best and most modern home for their dollar.

100 Zones Raised

Realistic View Taken of Speed Limits in State

ALBANY, Feb. 8 — The new state program to establish more realistic highway speed limits has resulted in raising the legal speed limits in 100 state highway zones so far, Motor Vehicles Commissioner William S. Hults announced today.

"These realistic speed limits will contribute to highway safety by increasing the motorists' respect for traffic regulations generally and by facilitating stricter enforcement of speed laws," the commissioner said. "At the same time, the program assures New York State motorists that the posted speed is the maximum safe speed under normal driving conditions," he added.

The State Traffic Commission's program, which is based on studies begun in 1959 by engineers under the direction of Lloyd A. Maeder, director of the division of traffic engineering for the new Department of Motor Vehicles, so far has encompassed 145 of the existing 1,200 State highway zones which are posted at less than the standard 50 miles per hour.

In 61 of these zones, which are of varying lengths, the limit has been raised by five miles per hour, in 25 it has been increased by 10, in 11 the limit has been 15 and in three the limits have been upped by 20 miles per hour. From the study, it also was evident that the existing limits should be retained on the other 45. There were no speed limit reductions, Commissioner Hults said.

Signs indicating the new speed limits already have been installed in 46 zones, and the others will be placed soon.

The engineers' study takes into consideration the physical characteristics of the highway itself, the extent of development of residential, industrial or commercial property nearby, and the speed at which 85 per cent of the motorists traveled in safety while negotiating the particular zone.

Gets Recognition After 22 Years For Chemical Find

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP)—Twenty-two years ago, Dr. Ralph H. Bullard perfected a chemical compound that would protect persons against mustard gas.

Last month, the Hobart and William Smith colleges chemistry professor received recognition for the discovery.

The U.S. Army had carried the process under classified matter because it was assumed a patent-grant would permit an enemy access to it.

The patent for the process, which neutralizes the poisonous gas was granted last month to the Lake Erie Chemical Co., to which Dr. Bullard had assigned it.

Dr. Bullard said the compound also acts as a protective element against other vesicant, or blister-producing gases. Gas masks still are required, however, to protect the respiratory system.

Dr. Bullard said he had tried several times to have the formula declassified by the Army, but it was not until late last year that he was successful, apparently because it was known by several governments.

These Days
IMPONDERABLES
As I write this, the snow outside my window must be 15 inches or more. I had planned to go to the Metropolitan Opera to hear "Il Trovatore." However, the weather is not such as will bring me outdoors; instead I listen to Verdi's opera on the radio. This is one of a million examples of imponderables that occur in one's life, the sudden, the unusual, the bizarre, the surprising. Had this blizzard occurred last week, my daughter might have had a few days grace to cram for her examinations; had it started a few hours earlier, she would not have flown to Boston.
These imponderables affect everything and everybody. Recently a man threw up his hands in a Jove-like disgust when I mentioned imponderables; yet the Christmas blizzard cost his firm several hundred thousand dollars. It is not only snow that comes at the wrong time; a word spoken by a politician out of order, a movie actress appearing in a new style, a rain during a political parade — a thousand and one unplanned, uncalculated little events can and do occur to change the course of events. Had Napoleon not dallied in Warsaw, he might not have had such a frightful time over his conquest of Russia. Had Charles Martel not defeated the Turks at Tours, Western Europe might have been Moslem. Had the Kaiser not helped Lenin to reach Petrograd, Germany today would not be divided in two. Had there been no Dreyfus Trial in France, in 1894, it is quite possible that there might not be an Israel in 1961.
The politician who believes that he can depend upon five year plans or seven year plans is as barmy as Mao Tse-tung who did not expect a famine to bring his economic structure toppling. And yet, droughts, floods and famines have been perennial in China and have upset regimes before this. In fact, Herbert Hoover, when he was Taotai of the Yellow River, in a conversation with Li Hung-chang, prophesied the fall of the Manchurian Empire because of the flooding of that river — but that is another matter.
Imponderables play an enormous part in politics. Catholicism defeated one candidate for the Presidency, but elected another. The Ku Klux Klan notwithstanding, the South, which was expected to vote for Nixon, voted for Kennedy. Robert A. Taft, who had devoted his entire life to the Republican Party, emerging as its leader, could not get the nomination for President despite his suitability. It went first to his Republican competitor, Thomas E. Dewey, and then to one who became a Republican for the occasion, Dwight D. Eisenhower. General Douglas MacArthur, who did everything according to the rules, was cashiered by President Truman who became Vice President by accident and was on hand to take the highest office when President Roosevelt died. By all calculations, Henry Wallace should have been nominated as Vice President but Roosevelt said to "Clear it with Sidney," meaning Hillman and Sidney preferred Harry Truman to James Byrne.
Nobody planned it that way. Surely Harry Truman did not. Nor did Herbert Hoover, a mining engineer when he worked in Manchuria, of the Urals, or in Australia expect to become President of the United States. He never planned for that.
An imponderable is a state of affairs which comes into existence without known cause, like a sudden plague of locusts. The farmer whose crop is eaten had no expectancy of such a calamity. He did not move a muscle to bring on the locusts! But there they are and his crop is gone and he will vote for another Congressman because this one brought him hard luck.
The imponderables plague politicians and statesmen who suffer endlessly from things that unexpectedly happen to them. For instance, no Democrat, a year ago, would have believed it possible that Mayor Wagner of New York would get into so heavy a quarrel with Carmine De Sapio, the Tammany boss, that the Democrats would be disrupted to the point of danger. This quarrel was unnecessary but it occurred. It could give New York City a Republican Mayor; it could re-elect Governor Nelson Rockefeller, who only a week or two ago looked as though he were moving to oblivion; it could give President Kennedy a tough time in 1964. Whoever started that row was no friend of anybody. It is a political imponderable.

★ The Doctor Says ★
Do You Need Vitamins?
Here's How to Judge
By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
What's the truth about vitamins anyway?
I was shocked the other day to read in an official government publication that the Department of Justice was forced to seize 50,600 bottles of mislabeled vitamin preparations, manufactured and sold by one of the most respected drug companies.
Since most of us are bombarded with misinformation about vitamins, here is a brief review of the role these important food elements play in the lives of normal individuals, eating average meals served in the average civilized community.
The average American diet provides more than the daily requirement of all vitamins. The label on the seized bottles that suggested the impossibility of maintaining adequate nutrition on a diet of ordinary foods because of "depleted soils, premature harvesting, faulty storage, processing, over-cooking and chemical destruction" is, as charged, false.
Equally false is the statement that "practically everyone is, or is in danger of, suffering from inadequate vitamin and mineral nutrition unless a vitamin or mineral supplement is added to the diet." For example, I have never in my professional life seen a vitamin deficiency in an otherwise healthy American who ate the average foods, served from the average American kitchen, by the average American housewife.
There is no virtue in taking vitamin excesses. There is no such thing as an anti-infective vitamin. The claims that C vitamins (ascorbic or cevitamin acid) prevent or modify the common cold or rheumatic fever have been exploded. The claim that A vitamin exerts a favorable influence on acne is nonsense. And the claims for E vitamin, relative to fertility and heart disease have been disproven.
In these difficult times, with living costs steadily rising, there's no need for the housewife to purchase supplementary vitamins, minerals or special foods so long as she serves a breakfast of orange or tomato juice; a hot cereal with sugar, butter and milk; bread or toast with butter or oleomargarine; and whole milk that's been enriched with vitamin D; a luncheon of a meat or cheese sandwich or hamburger or hot dogs, milk or cocoa and an apple or a banana; and a dinner that includes meat, fish or poultry; potato; a green and a yellow vegetable; bread and butter; and a dessert of canned fruit, fruit pie or an occasional treat of ice cream.
These recommendations should not be interpreted as a blanket condemnation of vitamin therapy, WHEN NEEDED. But, unless you have a true vitamin deficiency, diagnosed by your doctor, and you have been ordered to take a specific vitamin, prescribed by your doctor, better spend the hard earned household dollar on what folks used to call "vittles."

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The programs which President Kennedy has so far mapped out for the country are almost Utopian. Everybody can have everything. Both ways.
America has the resources, he says, to meet the demands for national security. At the same time it can have advancing well-being at home.
This has the familiar ring of "We can have guns and butter both," as the saying was in World War II days. Some of the optimists were saying then that the country could win the war with business as usual and without sacrifice.
KENNEDY HAS ALTERED that concept by saying that he will ask for sacrifices where needed. But the assumption now seems to be that these sacrifices aren't going to be too many, too great, nor for too long a time.
The country can have full production, the President indicates, and still have "reasonable stability of the price level." But what's "reasonable" to him hasn't been defined.
In the eight Eisenhower years the consumers' price index advanced 12 percentage points—114 to 126—or 1.5 points a year on the average. This provides a basis for future comparisons with the Kennedy administration record.
The President wants to increase the 2.5 per cent average annual growth rate of the last seven years to at least 3.5 per cent. He thinks that personal income last year could have been raised 20 billion dollars and profits raised five billion — at the same time.
Some people hold to the old-fashioned idea that higher wages mean lower profits. But that isn't the way it's going to work in the new Utopia, where higher wages and profits will mean higher tax collections to rebalance the budget.
KENNEDY TALKS ABOUT balancing the budget "over the years of the economic cycle." This means over a period of both boom and bust. It means budget surpluses for debt retirement in the years of prosperity, to offset the deficits in the years of depression.
The Eisenhower record was four years with total surpluses of six billion dollars, four years with total deficits of 22 billion. In other words, the national debt rose 16 billion—from 274 to 290 billion—another basis for comparison.
In these same eight years employment went up from 60 to 66 million, while unemployment rose from 1.6 million to 4.5 million, using the conservative estimates of the last Eisenhower economic report. These are other measures to keep in mind.
The programs which Kennedy has so far proposed to Congress for economic recovery and growth will not by themselves, he says, unbalance the last budget which Eisenhower submitted.
NO COST ESTIMATES for these Kennedy programs were included in the first special message which he sent to Congress. Elsewhere, it is indicated that the cost may be under five billion dollars over the next year and a half.
So the promise is to increase government expenses without unbalancing the budget—another Utopian idea. But the prospects for this are admittedly fading fast.
Some of the Kennedy proposals—like early payment of veterans' insurance dividends—do not call for an extra government outlay. Others, like increased social security benefits, will be paid for by later payroll deduction increases.
Minimum wage increases will be paid for by employers. Placing more defense contracts in depressed areas means that the underemployed areas won't have it so good. In other words, you don't get something for nothing, not even in Utopia.
BACK OF ALL THESE proposals, moreover, is the idea that prosperity can be restored by increasing government and private spending. It is a theory that has never been proved, though it is now widely advocated by some of the new Utopian frontier economists.
Kennedy says many of the measures he proposes are temporary. The need for them will disappear as the economy recovers.
The faster the recovery and the more temporary the measure, the more Utopian will be the country, anyway.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago
Feb. 9, 1941—Rain following cold weather reduced the area's blanket of snow.
A report of a rabid dog on Howland Avenue followed discovery of one on Hurley Avenue. Mrs. Annie E. Morill, of New Street, died.

Feb. 9, 1951—Defense Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson announced naming Arthur S. Flemming, formerly of Kingston, to the newly created manpower policy committee.
Five downtown business and apartment buildings in Hudson were destroyed by fire.
Two federal men checked here on the city's public works materials before an expected supply freeze in Washington.
Three contracts totaling $1,476,462 for construction of the Ontario School were reported signed.

Eisenhower Words Quoted To Dispel Missile Gap Idea
By DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 — It always was and still is misleading to talk about a "missile gap." For in truth there never has been and is not now any such thing if by this is meant there is lacking the power to deter the Soviet Union from attacking America.
Whoever originated the phrase perhaps had a cause to champion—political or otherwise—or misguidedly tried to convey the impression that, because the United States may have had fewer missiles at a given time, its deterrent power was also weaker. At last the true story is coming out. The real question is what is the strength, actual and potential, of the whole military apparatus of the United States at any moment to defend this country and our allies and to threaten such severe punishment in retaliation as to make sure no attack would be sanctioned by any enemy.
Lately some startling experiments have been completed. The groundwork for these was laid many months and years ago. Those who talk of a "missile gap" knew then what was in process. But they tended to confuse the public with statements of a highly technical nature which have not been understood generally.
U. S. Waited Lighter Type
Now the early type of intercontinental ballistic missiles contemplated large vehicles weighing many tons. The Soviets went ahead on that theory, but the United States preferred to wait until 1954 for a breakthrough that would give promise of comparatively lightweight warheads of the nuclear variety. But, in the meantime, a rather heavy weapon—but not of the weight of what the Soviets developed—accomplished for us a considerable advance in economy of power over that of the Soviet missile.
Meanwhile, United States research made remarkable advances in fuels and in guidance systems. Also, while the big missiles that must be fired from fixed bases were being developed, America made great progress in what are known as migratory missiles — those that function from movable platforms. The "Minuteman" missile has just been successfully fired a little over 6,000 miles in distance, is an example of this achievement.
The advantage in the "Minuteman" is in its simplicity and economy and in the fact that it can be fired one minute after the receipt of the command. This could be significant in any retaliatory action.
Until the "Minuteman" becomes operational in 15 to 18 months, there are other missiles presently available which carry a larger payload. Hence, the use of the term "missile gap" is bound to abate, and the talk will be concerned with the relative destructive power of all the American weapons versus those of the Soviets.
There is little sense in matching numbers of missiles, and much more justification in matching destructive power as a whole. What is important to know is the "over-all kill" or potential of the two rivals in the world.
The number of "Minuteman" missiles needed can be determined only within the framework of the whole arsenal. For the present, this arsenal will include twenty-seven squadrons of "Atlas" and "Titan" missiles — the heavier ones — with nine or ten to a squadron. There is talk of "another thousand" of the "Minuteman." The "Minuteman" is not more deadly than the "Atlas" or "Titan" — the payload is less — but accuracy may be a point in favor of the "Minuteman."
Then there's the "Polaris" missile, which also operates from a movable base and is fired from beneath the seas by our submarines. This means that the subs can approach close to an enemy shore and fire 1,200 to 1,500 miles inland. The "Minuteman" can be fired from movable railway cars. All this mobility poses a problem for an enemy which has to destroy all retaliatory power with the "first blow" of the surprise attack or run the risk of destruction by our missiles whose bases can be moved around from day to day.
Bulk in Manned Craft
At present, 90 per cent of America's retaliatory power is concentrated in manned aircraft. Some of these are overseas, but the bulk is in S.A.C.—the Strategic Air Command—operating from bases in this country.
There is danger that many S. A. C. bases could be destroyed by a surprise attack, and that's one reason for what is known as the "airborne alert," which means keeping a certain percentage of the big bombers in the air at all times. This would be maintained in full force if the danger of war suddenly increased. But to a large extent the "Minuteman" will offset even this danger and, in the not far-distant future, America may have a greater destructive force than ever has been envisaged by man.
Certainly there is no reason to think that the Soviet Union is strong enough today to try a surprise attack. In that sense, the "gap" will continue to be a speculative form of measurement. But the practical facts of today are as Dwight Eisenhower stated in his carefully chosen words in his final message to Congress on January 12 last:
"We must not return to the 'crash program' psychology of the past when each new feat by the Communists was responded to in panic. The 'bomber gap' of several years ago was always a fiction, and the 'missile gap' shows every sign of being the same."

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller
Item about the ice industry and frozen Rondout Creek and Hudson River in this column brought interesting remarks from readers. Henry Singer, who also spent his childhood downtown on the same block on Broadway as I did, could also hear the Mary Powell's famous whistle from his home. He said, the taxi drivers going over the Hudson, as I remembered, reminded him of an incident in which two robust taxi drivers had a very hot argument in just about the middle of the Hudson River. Feather's were readily flying and the law was going to be called in. They had only one problem. The argument was taking place in the middle of the Hudson River, so who had jurisdiction, the Dutchess County or Ulster County law men. Perhaps old time taxi drivers remember the incident and how it turned out.
I like listening to Warren Johnson on the Sunday Port Ewen noon news over local radio station, as he often mentions old times. This time he had Henry Neher as a guest. It seems Mr. Neher's father had charge of the Knickerbocker icehouses along the Hudson in the old days. Mr. Neher told about the men working on the ice who got up at 5 o'clock and worked some 12 hours. In weather like ours, before the days of road plows, the men had to go to work in knee-high snow. It sounds awful cold, but I remember some of them who used to come in my father's drug store. They seemed happy to have the jobs. Mr. Neher also told about little boys, bundled up in heavy clothes, riding horses which cut the grooves in the ice, and worked from 3 in the morning till noon. He said they were healthy and happy, and so bundled up, even if they fell they did not hurt themselves.
Those were the days before unemployment insurance. When you were out of a job then, money did not come in from anywhere until you got another job, but the woman folks, although few worked, seemed to know how to save for a rainy day and managed somehow, through many a winter. This "working on the ice" was bread and butter to many such families, with some 126 icehouses operating on the Hudson near us. Mr. Neher said some of those icehouses covered an acre of ground. About seven or eight men worked in each room to grab the big cakes of ice and place them. They used various instruments, like pike poles and ice saws. No doubt these items

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The next big predictable story on which television will focus its attention will be the trial of Adolf Eichmann. The man who was in charge of Nazi Germany's liquidation of Jews is scheduled to be tried in Israel in mid-March. So far, the job of covering the trial looks as an expensive headache. At the moment, it looks as if the three American networks have no choice but to accept pool coverage—each network to receive the same taped pictures of the trial each day—and each will pay about $50,000 to get them. But this is a lot less than the original estimates made by an Israeli government contract to provide exclusive TV coverage for all who want it. The original asking price was $160,000 from each network.

Another Problem

But cost isn't the only problem. The TV networks, like any other communications medium, dislikes the idea of having news fed to them, particularly by an agency allied with a government. The trial is expected to last 17 weeks, and the way things stand now, the three American networks will receive an hour's worth of TV tape on the trial daily, material which will be selected by an editor on the scene chosen by NBC, CBS and ABC.

But most awkward of all is a chance the Eichmann trial may not turn out to be very interesting viewing. In the first place, most of the testimony will be in a foreign language—Hebrew and German, and with instantaneous translations into English and French. In the second place, there may be long periods of the trial devoted to legalistic debate over Israel's right to try Eichmann, a German who was captured in South America.

Silent Classics Returning

Raymond Massey, the number one stage Lincoln, gets back into his top hat and beard for an April 1 American Heritage production which will be climaxed by the Gettysburg address. Blair Clark, CBS' new news director, is the new occupant of Edward R. Murrow's old office and chair. Good news is that last summer's "Silents Please," featuring silent movie classics will come back next month when "Take a Good Look" dies on ABC.

Recommended tonight: "Remember How Great," NBC, 8:30-9:30 (Eastern Standard Time) — Variety special with Jack Benny, Andy Williams, Juliet Prowse and Harry James; "Gunslinger," CBS 9-10—premiere of a new Western, with Preston Foster.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's ham, lamb and turkey, ma'am, at your supermarket and neighborhood grocery this weekend.

Specials on ham are not especially cheap. Prices are 4 cents a pound higher than a year ago at one New York metropolitan area chain, but they're less than recent levels. Meat department experts at the chains like to have an occasional special for every variety just to keep the customers interested.

Lamb, Turkey Down

Lamb and turkey are generally less expensive. The former is down 2 to 6 cents a pound this week in some places, up 4 cents in others. Prices are unchanged to slightly lower than a year ago in the New York area, while turkeys are 6 to 10 cents a pound cheaper than in the same week of 1960.

Pork chops and frying chickens are somewhat cheaper in some areas this week, but butter and veal chops are higher. Eggs are off 1 to 2 cents a dozen.

Lettuce remains an outstanding buy among vegetables. Other best buys are beets, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, endive, escarole, green onions, peppers, eastern potatoes, radishes, rhubarb, spinach, tomatoes, turnips and rutabagas.

Other Good Buys

Good buys include parsley, celery, assorted greens, eggplants, onions, corn, peas, sweet potatoes, artichokes, western and Florida potatoes, brussels sprouts, mushrooms and green squash. Outstanding buys among fruits are oranges, limes, grapefruit, tangerines, chestnuts and apples. Good buys are avocados, grapes, bananas, lemons, small western pears and pineapples.

COWBOY'S COWBOY—Western artist Charles Russell, above, died almost 35 years ago, but he will be important to television cowboys. His bronze sculpture, "Horse Wrangler," shown here, is the symbol of the Western Heritage Awards to be given by the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center, Oklahoma City. Copies will be given for outstanding TV shows, music and literature based on the West. Russell was one of the first five members named to the Hall of Fame.

EmpireCommerce Chamber Opposes 39 Weeks of Pay

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Empire State Chamber of Commerce opposes Gov. Rockefeller's plan to extend unemployment - insurance benefits from 26 to 39 weeks during critical economic periods.

During such abnormal periods, the Chamber said Wednesday, "special help should be given to those in need but this should be done outside of the framework of the unemployment - insurance law."

The chamber did not elaborate on what the special help should comprise.

The present system, the chamber said, was designed to help workers through "periods of normal unemployment."

Under a plan submitted to the Legislature in the Republican governor's behalf, insurance would be extended automatically if 1 per cent of the covered workers had exhausted their benefits in any 13-week period.

The governor said Tuesday unemployment in the state was near that stage.

Best Drivers

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — After giving aptitude tests to 20,000 drivers, Dr. Donald Schuster of the University of Southern California says married, former servicemen over 30 make the best drivers. The worst drivers are unmarried teenagers and men who frequently change jobs. Women appear to be better drivers than men, Dr. Schuster says, but they drive only a fifth the miles men do.

Hydro-electric Authority Has No AtomRight, Rocky

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The State Power Authority, limited to developing hydro-electric power, has no business getting into the atomic-power field, Gov. Rockefeller says.

The governor thus rebuffed Robert Moses, who for two years has been seeking legislation to lift the authority's limitation. Moses is chairman of the authority, a public agency.

"I don't see any reason for bringing in taxpayers' money to do things that already are being done," the governor told newsmen Wednesday.

Rockefeller noted that seven private utilities are engaged in a project to determine whether the development of electric power from atomic fission is feasible.

The State Office for Atomic Development rejected a power authority request last week for a recommendation to let it participate in the atomic-power field.

The site of Washington, D. C., as capital of the United States was chosen by George Washington.

Refugees Paint Grim Picture

Red China Is Stalked By Disease, Disorder

New Yorker Puts In Innocent Plea To Riot Charge

HONG KONG (AP) — Refugees arriving from Communist China say the twin specters of disease and sabotage stalk the land.

Hunger, malnutrition and famine in some areas have undermined the people's health and morale, they say, and passive but crippling sabotage is setting in.

Responsible Western experts here still see no sign of a mass uprising or revolution in the making. They say the Chinese Communists have taken drastic measures to stave off disaster.

Apparently trying to give their underfed, overworked people a breather, the Peiping regime has abandoned in all but name the "great leap forward" campaign on which it had pinned its hopes of overtaking the West in industrial and agricultural production.

Peiping also has started paying out large sums of precious foreign exchange—estimated at up to $200 million worth—to Australia and Canada for food for its hungry millions.

Refugees, streaming out of China in increasing numbers, paint a harrowing picture. The picture probably is colored by emotion, but the stories they tell are being repeated too often these days to be disregarded.

The people of China are desperate, they say. Food has always been short under communism but never this short. And rations are being cut lower and lower.

Some state granaries have been reported raided, others set afire.

Data on Nuclear Sub Stolen by 5, Trial Hears

GORDON LONSDALE

LONDON (AP)—A witness testified today details of Britain's first nuclear submarine were among Royal Navy secrets stolen by five persons accused of spying for the Soviet Union.

The witness was Capt. George Symonds, director of the underwater weapons section of a naval research station at Portland. Symonds was shown photographs alleged by detectives to have been found in the possession of Gordon Lonsdale, one of the defendants, when he was arrested Jan. 7.

The officer said the photographs were of pages of a secret book giving particulars—many of them highly secret—of British war vessels, including the nuclear sub, Dreadnought.

The Dreadnought is powered with an atomic reactor based on U.S. Navy designs.

The five defendants watched while a security agent showed some of the spy gadgets they allegedly used in their work.

The agent, identified only as "Mr. L," demonstrated photographic apparatus he said was suitable for making microdots, a favorite Soviet method of transmitting information secretly. Each microdot is a tiny bit of film no larger than a printed period. But when properly magnified it blossoms out into a photograph of an entire page of typewriting or of a book.

"Mr. L" told a magistrate he found the microdot apparatus at the homes of three of the defendants—Lonsdale, 37, Peter Kroger, 50, and Kroger's wife Helen, 47.

The other defendants are Harry F. Houghton, 55, and Ethel Gee, 46, both employees of the underwater weapons.

The prosecution says they furnished the secrets to Lonsdale, who took them to the Krogers for transmission to a spy master in Moscow.

Another 51 were submitted Jan. 17 and 1,160 went to the Senate Jan. 10.

The White House said Postmaster General J. Edward Day would have a news conference "to discuss the situation."

Kennedy formally sent to the Senate today the previously announced nominations of Clarence J. Martin Jr., to be undersecretary of commerce for transportation and Carlisle P. Runge to be assistant secretary of defense.

Governor Ready Urges Aid . . .

eral state approach to broaden higher-education opportunities.

As for the Rockefeller plan, some critics argue the plan would violate the state Constitution, which bars the use of public funds for church-operated schools. The state's private colleges include many operated by the Roman Catholic Church.

See Help For Well-To-Do

Other critics hold the plan, to cost $26 million a year when fully operative, would provide money for students whose families were fully able to pay for their children's education.

As the lawmakers reacted to public pressure, so Rockefeller now appears to be reacting to the legislators' views.

In talking about a possible compromise, the governor said Wednesday the $200 figure might be changed. He said it was "current thinking" that the plan would apply to all students, regardless of need, but he did not foreclose the possibility of a change in eligibility requirements.

Designed For Students

The governor rejected, as he has several times since the controversy arose, any thought that his plan was designed to help the colleges, in which case it would be unconstitutional as it applied to sectarian schools.

In defending the proposal for aid to all students, regardless of need, the governor said needy students would be helped to go to college under the plan and those otherwise able to afford it would be encouraged to attend school with the prospect of the additional help.

Other Developments

In other developments: The governor said he had made a concession to the Republican majority of the Senate to win its support for his bill to outlaw racial and religious discrimination in larger housing developments and multiple dwellings. But he said he had won the principle of the issue.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Winter Tourist Business endorsed a proposed constitutional amendment under which a private company would be able to operate a ski center on Forest Preserve land. The Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources and the State Conservation Department are opposed to the amendment.

Hopes Wane . . .

hours Wednesday in a White House meeting with Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and other top advisers. The subject was the crisis in Laos.

Any decisions on new moves are expected to be talked over with other interested governments before any action is taken.

The administration plan is understood to call for creation of a completely neutral international watchdog committee which would have the task of trying to promote an end to the civil conflict in the Southeast Asian kingdom, neutralize it and stop the flow of arms from the outside, particularly from the Communist bloc.

At the same time it is understood that Kennedy and Rusk are deeply worried about a byproduct of the Laotian crisis: the dissatisfaction of Asian members of the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization with what they consider the lack of a stronger U. S. policy in combating pro-Communist forces in Laos.

Would Employ SEATO

Thailand and the Philippines, both important U. S. allies in SEATO, are reported to have registered strong complaints against the U. S. failure, as they see it, to use SEATO in Laos.

One reason the United States has been unwilling is said to be British and French reluctance to invoke the defense clauses of the SEATO alliance.

Britain particularly has favored pacification measures rather than any move which might intensify the military conflict. To date Russia has held the key to pacification.

Three weeks ago Britain proposed to Russia on behalf of the Western powers a plan to re-establish in Laos an international control commission with a peacemaking assignment. The delay in a formal Soviet reply has led authorities here to conclude the Russians do not like the control commission plan.

Supervisors Meet Tonight

There will be a regular meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors tonight at 8 o'clock at the Court House, Wall Street.

Ulster Approves Order On Thawing Of Frozen Pipes

The thawing of frozen water pipes in the Town of Ulster must be done under the supervision of the town water superintendent, according to a resolution adopted Wednesday night at the February meeting of the Town of Ulster Board.

It was reported that a number of pipes in the township have been frozen during the current cold spell.

Could 'Foul' Taste

If pipes are not thawed properly, it was explained last night, it could result in extensive damage to the water system, including a "foul" taste in the water itself.

Damages could result to water mains, fire hydrants, electric wiring of adjoining properties, as well as the taste of the water, it was reported. Special apparatus which applies powerful electric current to the frozen pipe is used in the thawing process.

The town board, meeting at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall, adopted a resolution to accept $1,350 in settlement of a claim against Callanan Road Improvement Co. and the Rock Construction Co. for damages done to the Ulster water mains on East Chester street bypass when the bypass was widened and re-paved in 1959.

Cross Is Superintendent

The board appointed Albert Cross as superintendent of the town water district.

Cross recently completed a 30-day probationary period, during which he worked under the guidance of the Ulster County Board of Health, supervised by Harry Edinger, director of environmental sanitation, and Fred Wadnola, of that department. A letter of thanks will be sent to Edinger, expressing appreciation to him and Wadnola for their supervision and training of the newly appointed water superintendent.

Supervisor Alexander Banyo expressed his appreciation to Constable Joseph Lamphere, Town Clerk Laura K. Every, Road Superintendent Cortland Van Etten and highway employees for their services during the recent heavy snowfall.

He points out that they had worked 36 hours consecutively to clear the streets for residents of the township.

Banyo also issued a plea to residents to keep their cars off the streets in the event of another snowfall.

Two pieces of equipment for detecting breaks in water mains, useful in case of emergencies, will be purchased by the Ulster Water District.

May Buy New Truck

A resolution empowered the supervisor to study possible purchase of a new four-wheel drive truck for the water department. It would be equipped with a plow for clearing snow from hydrants, etc. His findings will be submitted at the March meeting.

Councilman Ted Musialkiewicz submitted the name of Dominick Brugolotti for board consideration as director of civil defense for the township. Raymond Davis tendered his resignation January 1 due to business pressures.

The board will act on the appointment at the March meeting. A special joint meeting was also held last night with the planning board in connection with acceptance of roads by the town. A preliminary study will be submitted to the town attorney and planning consultants to establish policy for such acceptance.

Jobless Called Worst Since 1st Of War 2 Dates

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department today added 25 major industrial centers to its list of substantial unemployment areas. A spokesman called the idle situation the worst since early World War II.

The new areas reported with an idle rate of 6 per cent or more of their work force included Philadelphia, Cleveland, Baltimore, Los Angeles, Newark, St. Louis and Kansas City.

At the same time, it was announced that Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg will make a five-state inspection of unemployment areas beginning Friday. He is making, at President Kennedy's direction, a series of on-the-spot tours of areas where unemployment is considered a major problem.

Goldberg will visit Chicago, Gary and South Bend, Ind., and Lansing, Mich., Friday; Detroit and Columbus, Ohio, Saturday, and Pittsburgh Sunday.

The new Labor Department survey of major labor centers showed that the aggregate rise in unemployment in the 150 major areas surveyed increased about 50 per cent, between November and January.

More than half of the 150 major areas are now classified as having substantial unemployment—that is, more than 6 per cent of their workers idle. Some of the areas reported an unemployment rate exceeding 12 per cent.

Freighter Still Stuck in Hudson
The freighter, African Monarch, trapped in 20-inch-thick channel ice in the Hudson River since Monday, was still fast near the U. S. Coast Guard Station, Esopus Meadows, it was reported today.

When your opponents get to a slam voluntarily, you don't expect to beat them badly. Of course, there are occasions when even the best of partnerships go haywire, but year in and year out winning players like to reserve the double of a voluntarily bid slam as a lead directing bid.

What lead should it call for? The most popular convention is one first suggested by Theodore A. Lightner, one of our all-time great players. It not only calls for an unusual lead, but generally for the MOST unusual lead.

East doesn't have much of a heart overall, but he has good clubs in back of North's opening club bid.

After South reaches, six spades, East has no idea if he can set the contract, but he has a pretty good idea that his best chance to set it is to get a club lead from his partner. He also knows that in this case the double will clearly call for a club opening.

The reason is that West's normal lead would be a heart—the suit East bid. Then how does East know that the double won't produce a diamond lead from West? Because, if East wanted a diamond lead he had a chance to double North's ace-showing bid of five diamonds.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
 PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Executives from top to bottom of the corporate ladder can reap-praise today the relation of man to company in the wake of what happened here to the electric equipment industry.

What happened was: The roof fell in.

As a result of guilty or no contest pleas to antitrust conspiracy charges 29 companies must pay fines totalling $137,500. Jail sentences were meted out to 31, with 24 put on five years probation and 7 others ordered to jail for 30 days starting Monday.

All concerned are pondering what their corporate future is—some already have left their jobs.

Warning Given

In countless other industries management men, big and little, are on notice they must be as above approach as Caesar's wife in avoiding involvement in price fixing or bid rigging. Many junior executives may wonder how far their superior will go in backing them up—may even question some practices or policies as dangerous to themselves.

The first individuals sentenced to jail looked unbelieving. Later one looked crushed or startled that they could be sentenced for doing their job as they had interpreted it.

Some openly showed resentment that they were being punished while "superiors weren't even indicted."

Make Contrasting Pleas

The relation of man to company in following practices deemed to aid the firms concerned varied widely among the corporations involved. Attorneys for companies and those for individuals made contrasting pleas in asking Judge J. Cullen Ganey of U. S. Dist. Court here for leniency.

Some company attorneys said their top men were unaware of the widespread price fixing and bid rigging in an industry with $2 billion a year sales. Some of their men showed active resentment of salary cuts and demotions since they were indicted last spring and insisted they were carrying out orders of their immediate superiors or instructions of their predecessors on the job.

Some of the individuals accepted the court punishment as they had accepted their company role—doing what seemed expected. They gave no indication in court of questioning the practice they held was needed to bring stability to a once highly competitive industry.

Had to Go Along, Some Say

Others pleaded through their attorneys that they had first opposed the idea of price fixing, banned by antitrust laws, but found they had to go along as part of their jobs. To these the judge mostly turned a deaf ear, saying they used substantial salaries to balm their conscience. But usually he suspended jail sentences and put them on five year probation.

Many of the defendants were at or near retirement age. The fines will bear down hard. So will loss of status in company and community.

Inquiry in Making as GOP Assails Missile Gap Stand

To Lead Seminar For Seniors at Paltz Saturday

DR. MYRON ROSSKOPF

A seminar on symbolic logic will be conducted by Dr. Myron F. Rosskopf, professor of mathematics at Columbia University, on Saturday at 10 a. m. at State University College of Education, New Paltz.

Students of the Senior Seminar Program of the Board of Cooperative Educational Services of Ulster County will participate. Dr. Rosskopf, an outstanding consultant and lecturer, will discuss the use of mathematical proofs and theories. He has been consultant to the New York State Department of Education, the Mathematics Regents Committee, and other state education departments.

From 1954 to 1959 he was editor of the State Mathematics Teacher's Journal. He is also co-author of a revised arithmetic series entitled, "Making Sure of Arithmetic." He has been an exchange teacher under the Fulbright Act.

He is now teaching classes in advanced mathematics at Columbia, researching in the teaching of arithmetic, mathematic logic and probability and statistical inference.

During the summer months, the temperature on the floor of Death Valley in California has been known to hit 126 degrees.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A fresh congressional weapons inquiry was in the making today as Republicans assailed as political President Kennedy's statement he isn't ready to say if there is a missile gap.

Responding to a demand by Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn., chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said the Senate Armed Services Committee will call service chiefs of staff before it about Feb. 20 for questioning on the issue.

Bridges Raps Shift

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois called on Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to "tell the truth" about a Pentagon briefing of newsmen which led to published reports there is no gap between American and Soviet missile strength.

Sen. Styles Bridges, R-N. H., challenged as a "shifting of position to avoid the facts" Kennedy's repudiation of these reports at a news conference Thursday.

Dirksen said in an interview he is writing McNamara asking if a press briefing was held and whether the secretary wants to say that reporters were wrong in quoting a Pentagon spokesman as saying there was no missile gap. "When you deal with missiles as President Kennedy did and make them the burden of your campaign and the center of the security section of your platform, you excite the apprehensions of the people," Dirksen said.

Apology Due People

He added: "If President Eisenhower was right in saying there is no missile gap, then the Democrats don't owe him an apology, but they owe one to the American people."

Bridges, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said in a statement that during the election campaign Kennedy had contended there was a growing gap. Bridges noted that a Pentagon spokesman—who Kennedy conceded was McNamara—had said Monday there was no such gap.

Kennedy indicated that even before the hearings begin he may have a report from McNamara on the capacity of American strategic weapons. He said studies may be completed by Feb. 20. Presumably the President would be ready to say then, on the basis of the report, whether he believes any missile gap exists or is threatened.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market churned in extremely heavy trading early this afternoon. Prices were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 235.40 with industrials off .10, rails unchanged and utilities up .20.

Volume for the first two hours was 2.34 million shares compared with 1.84 million Wednesday.

Speculative interest ran high in many of the lower-priced issues as it has for the past couple of sessions but activity was strong in all sections of the list. A fever for low-priced stocks sometimes marks the "blowoff" of a sustained market advance but it was too early to tell whether this was actually the case.

Most groups were thoroughly mixed. The general trend was a bit to the upside but sharp losses by electrical equipment manufacturers dragged down the popular averages.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.18 at 647.67.

Ike Tours Grove

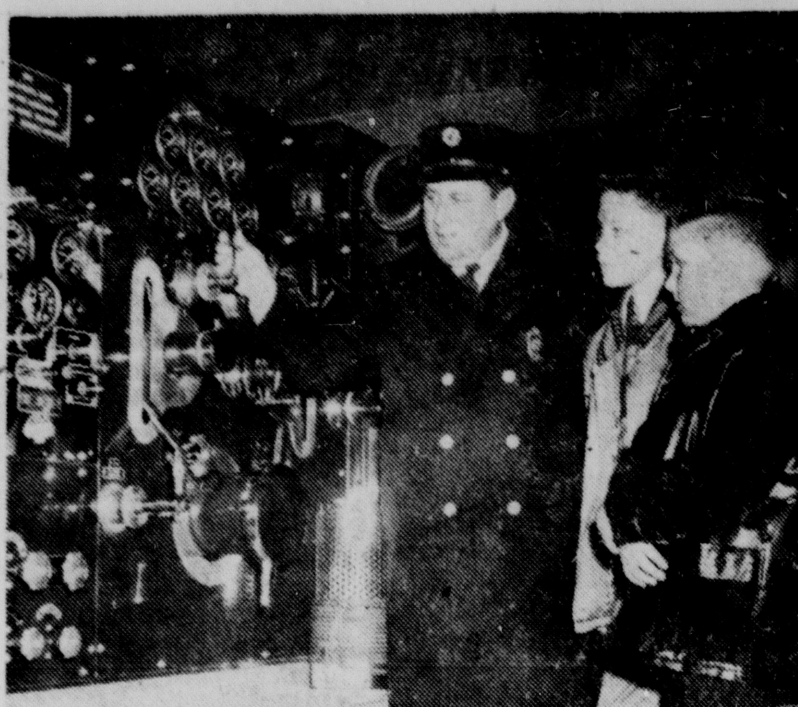

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower—last month a chief of state—addressed himself today to his most serious current program: that grapefruit grove to the left of the first fairway.

His first California golf drive as a private citizen Wednesday sliced into citrus trees lining the emerald green fairway at the luxurious Eldorado Country Club.

"Take a mulligan," said his friend and golfing companion, George Allen. A mulligan is a second stroke—which doesn't count—which golfers allow themselves on the first tee.

Ike did. A crowd of bystanders applauded as the ball soared 220 yards right down the middle.

Ike and his wife arrived from the East at dawn Wednesday by train at San Bernardino, 50 miles west of here.

Car License Tab Has Special Place

ALBANY — That small yellow tab which, when attached to the 1960 automobile number plate, shows that the vehicle is properly registered with the Department of Motor Vehicles for 1961, belongs on the lower right-hand corner of the rear plate, and nowhere else.

Commissioner William S. Hults said today that apparently many motorists believe that they can put the tab anywhere, but the regulation definitely states that it must be placed directly over the "60" on the plate.

If the tab is displayed in another position, the motorist can be arrested for a traffic infraction.

8 Stations Lose Licenses

ALBANY — The Department of Motor Vehicles revoked the licenses of eight service stations and garages designated to do safety checks under the State's Periodic Motor Vehicle Inspection Law during January. Commissioner William S. Hults said today. The revocations followed hearings held on complaints from motorists and regular investigations by state police.

The stations are prohibited from performing inspections for the period of one year after which they may apply for a new license.

Committees Hold Opposite Views On Hunter Lease

There is a difference of opinion between two legislative committees on whether Forest Preserve lands should be leased for private profit.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Winter Tourists came out Wednesday in favor of leasing public lands atop Hunter Mountain in Greene County to a private-owned ski slope for trails, lifts and other amusements.

Opposes Measure

Last week the more-powerful Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources said it opposed the measure, which has already been approved by one legislature and needs a second approval this year before it can go on the ballot in November for action by the voters.

The New York State Conservation Department opposes the Hunter Mountain proposal. Assemblyman Willis H. Stephens, (R-Putnam) chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Winter Tourists, said he favors the Bush-Brady amendment to the State Constitution, and further favors "multiple use of the Forest Preserve."

Additional land is sought by Hunter Ski Bowl Corporation to extend the facilities, add trails and lifts to the present facilities which are privately owned.

Strike New Blows

Conservation groups struck two new blows against the proposal. Greene County Federated Sportsmen's Clubs, which previously failed to take a stand on the measure, voted 6 to 5 opposing lease of "forever wild" lands to Hunter Mountain Ski Development Corporation at its Thursday night meeting last week.

Saugerties Fish and Game Club, the oldest and one of the most powerful sportsmen's clubs in Ulster County Federation announced its opposition to the Hunter proposal at its January 30 meeting.

Sumner as vice presidents, Oscar J. Lawatsch as treasurer, Mrs. Morton Zucker as secretary, and Miss Mary Keresman as executive secretary.

New vice presidents elected were Dr. Elbert H. Loughran of Kingston, and Mrs. Ernest Ryan of Kingston. New directors elected for one year terms were: Miss Mae Evans, Saugerties; Dr. Arthur Hazenbush, Kingston; William C. Klein, Port Jervis; David Kline, Kingston; Alan P. McCorkle, Stone Ridge; Howard C. St. John, Kingston; William Schiff, Hurley.

Re-elected to the board for one year terms were: Mrs. Gifford Beal, Kingston; Dr. George Bushnell, Kingston; John Gaffney, Highland; Mrs. Sam N. Mann, Kingston; Dr. Stephen McGrath, Kingston; Richard E. McNaughton, Kingston; Mrs. Martin Oberkirch Jr., Port Jervis; Henry Singer, Kingston. Vassar Hospital Starts Priority Admissions Plan

An emergency admission procedure which is expected to overcome any condition imposed by a backlog of patients waiting for admission has been launched at Vassar Hospital, according to Dr. Wallace C. Bedell, chairman of the admissions committee of the medical staff.

Dr. Bedell said it is hoped that the emergency admissions system will prove equitable to all patients and physicians and will enable those patients whose conditions are most urgent to receive priority for the hospital space available.

Under the emergency system, a bed reserve will be established of at least four beds for males and an equal number for females.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Investment Advisor and Analyst

Long Term Investments
Usually Most Profitable

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "In your long experience with stocks, have you seen the average person of average income make more profit by long term or short term gains?" — Y. B.

A) You ask an interesting question on an investment fundamental and I am sure older readers of this column will have a good idea of what my conclusion is. After 35 years' experience with all types of investment clients I am convinced that the wisest course for the average investor is to buy and hold — at least for a reasonable period of time — stocks of sound companies participating in expanding areas of the economy. Over the long term, this policy will invariably be the most profitable one.

Playing short term cycles of stock prices can be either a very profitable or a very costly business, depending primarily on the experience and judgment of the individual investor — and the type of advice he gets. I know persons who have made sizable profits by investing for quick turns but they are almost always very shrewd and knowledgeable investors who have been around the financial community for years. And they often have access to sources of information not available to the average investor.

Q) "I work for United Merchants & Manufacturers and have the option to buy company stock at a 10 per cent discount. What return on my money would this be and is the purchase advisable?" — D. H.

A) You imply that your main investment concern is current income and if this is so I suggest that you take advantage of your company's offer. I would not buy the shares for growth, although this may develop as the company diversifies its business. The current market price per share is about $18, which means the cost to you would be around $16.20. Assuming that the present $1.10 annual dividend rate is maintained, your return would be a very favorable 6.8 per cent.

New Head Of Congo Regime

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo

(AP)—President Joseph Kasavubu today appointed a new government for the Congo, replacing the regime of commissioners established by Gen. Joseph Mobutu's military coup four months ago.

Mobutu himself was out of the capital during the frantic political maneuvering that preceded the announcement, but there was every indication the new regime will have the army's support.

The prime minister in the new provisional government is Joseph Ileo, Kasavubu's original choice for the post when he fired Patrice Lumumba and set off the internal political split that has brought the Congo to the brink of civil war.

Kasavubu said the government will stay in office until a parliament representing the whole country can be called. He set no time for this parliament to meet.

The government change apparently resulted from the flurry of talks attendant on the U. N. Security Council's current Congo debate and from the Kennedy administration's seeming willingness to consider a formula for the Congo that would include Lumumba's release from prison.

By turning the administration back to the politicians, Kasavubu apparently hoped to give a more representative basis to the government and to demonstrate that party leaders are competent to run the country.

The new government takes office today.

Day Will Remove Ike's High-Paid Postal Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General J. Edward Day said Wednesday he intends to remove many of the high-salaried postal executives named to regional offices created by the Eisenhower administration.

Charging that the Republicans filled the jobs "on a purely political basis," Day said "we are filling them with persons responsive to and a part of this administration."

Day's statement was in reply to criticism of the new administration on the floor of the House Tuesday by Rep. August E. Johansen, R-Mich.

Johansen accused the Post Office Department of putting pressure on the 15 regional office directors to resign or retire and otherwise engaging in "shenanigans" with the Civil Service system.

Day said the Eisenhower administration had created the top regional jobs under provisions which permitted appointments without competitive Civil Service examinations.

Day said the 15 regional offices were established by his predecessor, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield and "more than 4,000 people were selected to staff the regions."

"Most of these—certainly all in the higher paying positions—were chosen on a purely political basis," Day said.

Dental Health Week Observance

In observance of the 13th annual National Children's Dental Health Week, The Freeman, in cooperation with the Ulster-Greene Dental Society, presents typical questions asked about dental health and the authoritative sources.

Is water fluoridation really effective?

Numerous studies have indicated that children who drink water containing 1 part per million of fluoride from birth have up to 65 per cent less tooth decay.

While all water contains some fluoride, some water supplies lack sufficient fluoride to help children develop decay-resistant teeth. When a fluoridation program is put into effect, the amount of fluoride in the water is brought up to the amount needed—1 part per million.

Chemically water containing the optimum amount of fluoride naturally and water to which fluoride has been added are exactly the same. Both are equally effective in helping to develop decay-resistant teeth. The benefits of drinking water containing fluorides are lifelong.

Water fluoridation is endorsed by the American Dental Association, the American Medical Association and numerous other scientific groups.

It should be pointed out that water fluoridation does not prevent all tooth decay. Children do receive partial protection when they drink fluoridated water. But if they want good dental health it still is necessary that they follow these rules: Eating a diet low in sweets. Brushing their teeth after every meal. Having regular dental check-ups.

Do fluorides in the public water supply have any harmful effects on human beings?

Exhaustive dental and medical studies have shown that at this concentration fluoride in the drinking water has no harmful effects on human beings. In fact, even at considerably higher concentrations—8 parts per million in Bartlett, Tex., one of the towns studied—the only harmful effect is mottling (brown staining) of the teeth. This mottling does not occur when the water contains only 1 part per million of fluoride.

What is meant by topical application of fluorides?

Applying a fluoride solution directly to the teeth. This is done in areas which do not have fluoridated water supplies. How much it reduces decay varies from child to child. But studies have shown that is an effective preventive measure that can be used to protect a child's teeth against decay.

When fluoride is applied, the dentist's first step is to clean the child's teeth. Then he puts a solution of either sodium fluoride or stannous (tin) fluoride on the teeth.

matter of FACT

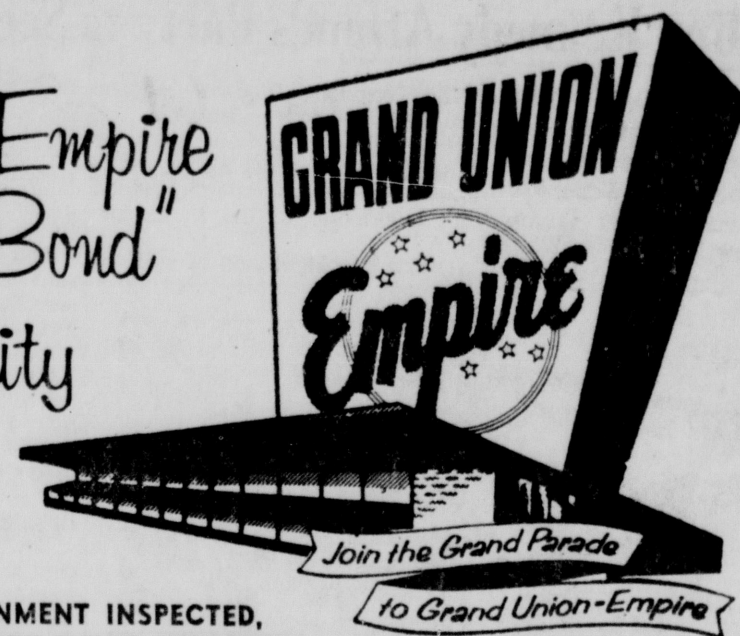

Women have divorced husbands who worked late on their stamp collections. Men have lived in poverty, refusing to sell expensive collections. One library has more than nine thousand books written about postage stamps. With this much interest in a hobby it is not surprising that a man died of shock a few hours after his collection, one of the finest in the U.S., was destroyed by fire.

Caroline Kennedy Attends Party to See for Herself

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three-year-old Caroline Kennedy was fascinated by the scarlet-coated Marine Corps Band Wednesday night as she watched her parents give a big party at the White House.

The President's daughter sat on the stairs to listen and watch. And for a while, she was in full view of the gathering of Washington's diplomatic corps as she stood with her nurse in the main corridor.

It was President and Mrs. Kennedy's second major social event in the White House—a 5 to 7 p.m. diplomatic reception. But it was Caroline's first glimpse of a party in the huge home she has lived in for just five days. She obviously loved it.

And Mrs. Kennedy explained she'd rather have her daughter see the historic event first hand than tell her about it afterwards.

Caroline watched her father get the exciting musical honors—ruffles and flourishes and a rendition of "Hail to the Chief" as he made his entrance. And later she got a special song — "Old MacDonald Had a Farm."

The appearance of the President's little daughter in her white organdy party dress was just one of the warm, unexpected touches that greeted the foreign visitors.

The President and his wife, after shaking hands with 240 top diplomats and their wives, spent another 50 minutes chatting and visiting in the huge State Dining Room, where waiters served champagne and a buffet table was laden with canapes, sandwiches and pastries.

Serving in Germany

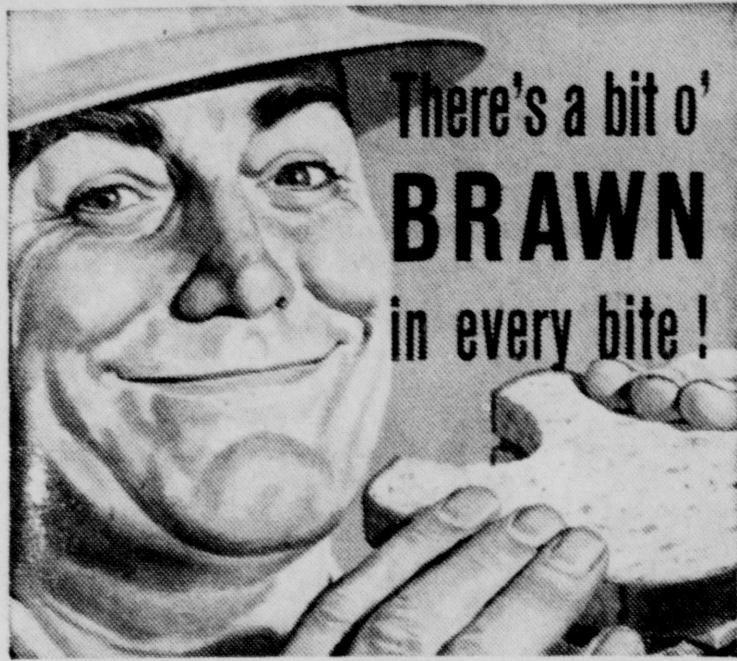

Army Pfc. Robert Petersen, whose wife, Wava, lives in West Shokan, and Army Specialist Five Robert G. Campbell, 26, son of Mrs. Margaret Campbell, Plattekill, are participating with other personnel in Exercise Winter Shield II at the Grafenwohr-Hohenfels training area in Germany. The exercise ended Wednesday.

Winter Shield, an annual Seventh U. S. Army winter field training maneuver, involving 60,000 U. S. Army, German and French troops, marks the high-point of a year's training for units in NATO's "Pyramid of Power."

Pfc. Petersen, a radio operator in the 58th Signal company in Kaiserslautern, entered the Army in March 1960 and arrived overseas last September.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Petersen, 116 Wrentham Street, Kingston, he attended Kingston High School. Specialist Campbell is a mechanic in the 556th Ordnance company in Nurnberg. He entered the Army in 1957.

Campbell is a 1954 graduate of Walkkill Central High School. Before entering the Army, he was employed by the Valleywell Mfg. Co., Plattekill.

First Power Will Come From Niaga Project on Friday

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—The free world's mightiest hydroelectric development—the Niagara Power Project—will deliver its first power Friday, climaxing three years of feverish toil to meet the completion deadline.

Gov. Rockefeller will throw a switch at 11:30 a.m. and the first of 13 giant generators will turn out 150,000 kilowatts of power from the Robert Moses Niagara Power Plant.

An hour before the official opening, nearly all of the project's 1,800,000kw of dependable power will have been signed for and sealed by 12 customers. The delivery date will depend on the completion of interlocking connections.

The first output is a somewhat meager supply when compared with the ultimate capacity of 2,130,000kw which will be ready in 1963.

The largest single contract for power is from the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., and the initial wattage will be delivered to the corporation Friday. The company will receive 1,190,000kw under the agreement.

Taking part in the dedication ceremonies of the $740 million project with the governor will be Moses, chairman of the State Power Authority; James S. Duncan, chairman of the Hydroelectric Power Commission of Ontario, Canada; State Sen. Earl W. Brydges of Niagara Falls, and Walter S. Johnson, chairman of the Niagara Bridge Commission.

Workaday Archeology

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—You don't have to be an archeologist to uncover ruins from the past, city officials are learning. Workmen digging for a new steam line near Columbus' civic center have run across railroad tracks, concrete machinery foundations, street pavement eight feet below the present street level, old pipeline and some grindstones.

Countryman—Oh, that's her son-in-law, sir. He's been keeping up the payments on her life insurance for the last thirty years.

World Day of Prayer Program
At Christ Lutheran, Feb. 17

Special services in conjunction with World Day of Prayer will be held on Friday, Feb. 17, at 2 p. m. in Christ Lutheran Church in Woodstock.

The worship service is being sponsored by the women of the Protestant churches in Woodstock under the leadership of Mrs. Donald Zimmermann, chairman. The program is in conjunction with the 75th anniversary of the World Day of Prayer.

The Rev. Norman C. Krapf, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, points out that 75 means many things to many people; the answer to an arithmetic problem, the price of a movie, the coins that must somehow suffice to buy the day's food, a street number, a diamond anniversary, age old, to some mind, perhaps, or maybe to others just the height of fulfillment of the years.

Seventy-five, to millions of people in 1961, means the multiplied faith and devotion of countless women. For 1961 is the 75th anniversary of the World Day of Prayer.

The act of prayer is as old as man himself and man's belief in its power as enduring as the chain of life upon this planet. The power of prayer is known to millions with abiding devotion and faith. The agencies of people today to band together and act collectively for multiplying their strength is reflected in their effort to pray together across the vast geographical distances between them.

Started in 1887
World Day of Prayer, sponsored in the United States by the United Church Women of the National Council of Churches, carries with it a potential force worthy of the nuclear age in which we live. From a day set aside back in 1887 at the suggestion of one woman of one denomination to pray for the success of its home missions and to bring gifts for their support. World Day of Prayer has grown into a giant inter-denominational international prayer cycle.

Now the people of 145 countries take part and their gifts help provide schools, colleges, hospitals, doctors, nurses, teachers, vacation church schools, day-care centers, mobile clinics, scholarships and spiritual nurture in America and in many lands overseas.

Seventy-five years have passed and the observance has gathered the faithful on all of the earth's far flung continents and distant lands. On Feb. 17, as the Day rises west of the international date line, on the island of Tonga, Queen Salote will call her people to prayer. As the sun travels in the sky and the day grows older from other islands, from mountain hamlets, from lonely plains and verdant valleys, from noisy cities and from millions of firesides, more and more prayers will rise until, in the far north, at the top of the world, the Christians on St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea will add their name to the great universal chord.

Thus from the silent prayer of each individual, to that of communities gathering in a place of worship on Feb. 17, to the Prayer Fellowship meetings on behalf of huge geographical areas, the united effort of Christians to find God's purpose for this world will come full circle. Everyone can be a part of this fellowship wherever he is, on Friday, Feb. 17.

Vidal Accepts
Bid to Dinner
For L. A. Lewis

Gore Vidal, the prominent Barrytown author, playwright and political figure, has accepted an invitation to attend the testimonial dinner for Louis A. Lewis on March 4 at Deanie's. Vidal, who made a phenomenal run as Democratic-Liberal candidate against J. Ernest Wharton in November, responded enthusiastically to the invitation.

"I shall be very happy to attend the dinner and visit with my many friends in Woodstock," Vidal wrote to the general chairman, a fellow author and columnist, Edmund (Ed) Gilligan of Bearsville. "I have had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Lewis and am aware of his many years service as Woodstock's No. 1 Democrat. He richly deserves this tribute."

The public sale of tickets for the Lewis testimonial is now under way, chairman Gilligan reports. Tickets may be reserved with the chairman or other members of the ticket committee. The dinner is sponsored jointly by the Woodstock Democratic Club and town Democratic committee.

H. Schimmerling
On Von Webern,
Robert Craft

Mahler's Ninth Symphony and Webern's Passacaglia! How interesting to hear both compositions in one and the same concert! To put them on the same program, perhaps the last challenging idea of the late Mitropoulos conducting the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra. Mahler's Ninth: the end of the road that began with Kuhnau's "Sonata-Form" and led via Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Brahms to the symphonists of the 20th century, to the borderline between chromaticism and atonality.

Webern's Passacaglia opus 1 at the beginning of another road that had started perhaps only a decade earlier, leading from Schoenberg's still Wagneresque chromatic period far beyond the much contested borderline of twelve-note music. Both works were composed at the same time; how provoking for the listener.

One lady next to me in the audience said: "This is a Webern piece which I still like." She emphasized the word still. This implies that she dislikes Webern's later compositions. Of course, why shouldn't she like it? It has still a key-signature: one flat. There are people living in our days that still like Mahler's First or Fourth Symphony, but not anymore his Seventh or Ninth; exactly as there were people living 130 years ago that then liked still Beethoven's quartets opus 18 and 59, but not anymore his opus 133 or 125.

Twelve-Tone Master
Anton von Webern, though he was born in 1883, is still a controversial personality in music history. His compositions are performed, his name is mentioned and known; but so was Salieri's in his days. But who knows Salieri today?

One of the greatest promoters of Webern's music in the USA is Robert Craft. Residents of Ulster County should be proud of him. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Craft of 22 Washington Avenue in Kingston. Robert Craft must have spent a lot of craft, please excuse the pun; energy, time and God knows what else to produce phonograph records of all Webern's compositions.

When I played them at home the wonderful relationship between me and my wife deteriorated. This was her ultimatum: "either the Webern records or I." So I gave them away and stayed with her. But this doesn't solve the Webern problem in music history.

On Sunday, Sept. 15, 1960, we drove toward the lovely village of Mittersill in the Austrian province of Salzburg. There it was, back in 1945, when an unhappy composer was shot by mistake during the night by a soldier of the occupation forces after World War II. The unhappy composer was Anton von Webern, the most radical in the triumvirate of the Austrian nationalists: Schoenberg, Berg, Webern. The tragic death reminds us of "Stonewall" Jackson tragedy on May 2, 1863. Mistakes are made everywhere, even in shooting, once near Chancellorsville, another time in Mittersill. H. A. SCHIMMERLING.

Set Convention,
Parade Plans for Fire Company

Woodstock Fire Company No. 1 has voted to attend the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association convention and parade on June 22-23-24 and also the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association convention and parade in New Paltz on July 27-28-29.

Action on these items was voted at the monthly meeting of the company this week at the fire hall.

Fire Chief George Haythorne's report indicated there were two fires during the month of January, one building and one chimney blaze. The chief said he was pleased with the handling of the Lollack fire in Wittenberg and commended Wittenberg Fire Co. No. 2 for its promptness in getting to the fire and keeping it from spreading to the garage on the property. It was a good job in bitter cold that ranged from 10 to 20 below zero.

Dinner Big Success
Joseph Raymond, chairman of the annual banquet held Saturday night at the Irvington reported he was pleasantly surprised by the large turnout in spite of terrible weather that cancelled out almost every similar function in the county. There were no cancellations and a couple extra guests showed up. He thanked all who attended and enjoyed the excellent dinner.

The following committees have been appointed for the coming year: steward, Richie Whispell; investigating, Robert Smith, Milton Combs, William Harder; auditing, Merwin Doremus, James Kinns, Charles Kullmann; memorial, George Haythorne, Herbert Wyman, Bruce Reynolds; uniforms, Eugene Snyder, Jerry Ferguson, Robert Hastie; music, Chester Wolven and Duncan Wilson.

Democratic Club
Slates Meeting

A reorganization meeting of the Woodstock Democratic Club will be held Thursday, Feb. 16 at Deanie's in Woodstock.

Among the items on the agenda will be the selection of an acting president to replace Raymond Kenyon, who has been ill for several months. Kenyon, a professor at State University at New Paltz, has been granted a leave of absence through the current school year.

Other businesses include a ticket report on the testimonial dinner for Louis A. Lewis, appointment of committees and reports.

It is hoped to have representatives of the Ontario Board of education on hand to discuss the forthcoming school bond issue.

The meeting is open to all persons interested in democratic government for the township of Woodstock.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Serve Low-Calorie Sauce With Halibut

FAVORITE of many folks, halibut steaks are good eating and low in fat. Good base to build a low-calorie dinner on.

GAYNOR MADDOX

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Fish and sea food are ideal for weight watchers. They are high in protein and relatively low in calories and can be temptingly prepared with little fat.

For a low-calorie, high protein dinner plate, serve four ounces broiled halibut steaks (a man's favorite) with a lemon wedge, a medium-sized parsley-buttered potato with one pat butter, one serving of asparagus.

Broiled Halibut Steaks With Low-Calorie Sauce

Plan on one-quarter pound of halibut for each serving. For 4 servings, broil 1 pound halibut steaks as follows: If steaks are frozen, let them thaw on refrigerator shelf or at room temperature. Combine 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons lime or lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon thyme, 1 pinch each nutmeg, pepper. Brush on fish. Broil, 3 inches from heat for 5 minutes. Turn fish; brush with butter mixture. Broil 5 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

A cocktail of five shrimp, with a sauce, starts a low-calorie, high-protein meal.

Shrimp Cocktail With Piquant Sauce

Use peeled and deveined uncooked shrimp. To a quart of water, add 1 heaping teaspoon pickling spices. Let simmer 5 minutes. Add shrimp, let come to boil again and cook 2 to 5 minutes, never longer. Drain immediately. Chill and serve in seafood cocktail glasses (5 shrimp to a serving) with sauce made as follows: Combine 1/3 cup chili sauce, 1/3 cup finely chopped green pepper, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 2 teaspoons horseradish, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon black pepper. Chill. This makes 1 cup sauce.

Rev. J. P. Keating Heads Catholic Charities Drive

The Rev. James P. Keating of St. Joseph's Church, this city has been named district manager for Ulster County in the 42nd annual appeal of New York Catholic Charities. Cardinal Spellman has set the period of April 23 to May 3 for the drive and the goal at $3,325,740.

The amount to be raised, in addition to bequests and income from designated gifts, will provide the funds needed to carry on and expand the welfare services of Catholic Charities to families, children, the aged, the sick and to youth. Catholic Charities has 192 affiliated health and welfare agencies and institutions in the New York Archdiocese which includes Manhattan, Bronx, Richmond, Westchester, Putnam, Dutchess, Sullivan, Orange, Ulster and Rockland Counties.

The Appeal will be conducted by 17,000 volunteers in the 401 parishes which comprise the New York Archdiocese with a house-to-house enrollment of Catholic families during the designated period. Prior to that the Cardinal's Committee of the Laity will begin soliciting special gifts from business and professional people not reached in the ordinary course of the Parish Appeal. The Committee will continue to function throughout the year.

Parish activities will be supervised by 27 priests appointed by Cardinal Spellman as district managers in their respective counties and by the staff of Catholic Charities, at 122 East 22nd Street, assisting parishes in organizing their volunteers.

Insurance, Phone Executives Vice Chairmen of Fund Drive

NEWLY APPOINTED VICE CHAIRMEN — Wakeman R. Gardner (left) and John W. Egbert today were named vice chairmen of the annual Red Cross fund campaign in Ulster County. The Kingston men will help coordinate the individual fund drive throughout the county during March.

Saturday Edison Day

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Saturday will be Thomas Alva Edison Day in New York State.

Gov. Rockefeller proclaimed the observance Wednesday in honor of the inventor, whom he described as one of the "important, distinguished scientists of all time."

Back as Council Leader

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—Frederick H. Biederstedt of Syracuse has been named to another term as president of the State Council of Churches.

Other officers also were re-elected at a meeting here Wednesday.

Wakeman R. Gardner and John W. Egbert, both of Kingston, have been named vice chairmen of the 1961 annual Red Cross fund raising campaign in Ulster County, campaign Chairman Wilbur R. Peters announced today.

Mr. Gardner, who served as second vice chairman of the 1960 campaign, resides at 197 West Chestnut Street and is manager of the Kingston office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Mr. Egbert, who will serve as second vice chairman for the local chapter's fund drive in March, is district manager for the New York Telephone Co. and resides at 87 St. James Street.

Chairman Peters said, "Mr. Gardner and Mr. Egbert will act as executive assistants and coordinate the individual town fund drives throughout Ulster County."

The 1961 chairman also said that "they will gain valuable campaign experience which will help insure that experienced personnel will be available to assume the chairmanship in future years."

Mr. Gardner was born in Binghamton, graduated from Norwich high school and attended Ithaca College. He later returned to Norwich and became associated with a finance company.

During World War II, he served almost five years with the U. S. Army and was separated from service with the rank of major.

After active services he joined the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in Binghamton and in 1952 he was promoted to assistant manager in charge of the Oneonta office.

In 1955 Mr. Gardner became a territorial field supervisor and traveled to the company's 80 district offices in upper New York State and Connecticut. He took charge of the Kingston office in 1959.

Mr. Egbert joined the New York Telephone Co. in 1925 after attending the University of Vermont. During his career with the company, he served with the plant, traffic and commercial departments and he came to Kingston as district manager in 1959.

Mr. Egbert is third vice president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce and a member of the chamber's community college committee and state legislative affairs committee.

He is a member of the Kingston Community Chest planning committee and a director of the Ulster County chapter of the Red Cross.

Acting Boss in Charge

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York State Police operated without a boss today but Capt. William E. Kirwan, director of the State Police Laboratory, filled in as acting superintendent.

Supt. Francis S. McGarvey retired at midnight yesterday. Arthur S. Cornelius Jr., named to succeed him, will not assume duties until Tuesday, following expected LICENSED MOONSHINE — The bootlegger's "white lightning" goes respectable in Albany, Ga., where Viking Distillery markets 90-proof corn whiskey in glass fruit jars, the same type container favored by the moonshiners. Only this has a government tax stamp.

George M. Searle, McGarvey's assistant, also retired Wednesday.

Albany Leaders Facing Most Critical Challenge

Voters, Not GOP Bosses, Shape Opinions Of Solons on College-Tuition Proposal

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Home-town pressures and not the Republican legislative leaders are shaping the opinions of rank-and-file GOP members on the controversial college-tuition plan.

The leaders, facing one of the most critical challenges in years to their control, have been losing ground steadily in their battle to keep GOP lawmakers behind the program.

Optimistic at First

Gov. Rockefeller presented the plan to the Legislature. It calls for $200 annual grants to New York State residents attending private colleges within the state, including church-operated schools.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carino set out to win approval of the Republican majorities in the Legislature.

At first, they emerged from closed-door party conferences with optimistic reports for the governor. The members were receptive to the plan, they raised no objections, the leaders said.

But, as public reaction to the plan developed, many legislators began to express misgivings.

There were criticisms that the plan, as it affected church-operated schools, would violate a constitutional provision against use of state funds for church-operated schools.

Some lawmakers objected to the fact that money would go to all state students in private colleges regardless of their financial status.

One Republican assemblyman said the Legislature had enough problems without taking on new ones voluntarily.

Religious Divisions

There are religious divisions on the issue. The State Council of Churches, representing two million Protestants, opposes the plan. Jewish groups also have come out against it. Roman Catholic spokesmen have endorsed it.

As a result, lawmakers from heavily Protestant areas tend to frown on the plan. Those with heavy Catholic constituencies tend to favor it. Lawmakers representing New York City areas with large Jewish populations are against it, for the most part.

One legislator pointed out that his district included a heavily Catholic city and a heavily Protestant rural area. He said he was undecided.

Concedes to Pressure

The announcement by Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carino that he would not invoke party discipline to force members to vote for the bill was a concession to the strong pressures being brought from the home front both for and against the plan.

Under party rules, the speaker could bind all Republican members to vote the way a majority of the GOP lawmakers wished.

But feeling on the tuition plan is running high and Carino decided against us of this drastic weapon.

In the Senate, where Mahoney exercises tight control, there has been no announcement on what latitude, if any, members will be given.

Dairy Surplus Is Larger Than '60

WASHINGTON (AP)—The surplus in dairy products is running nearly a fifth larger than a year ago.

An agriculture Department report showed today that government purchases of these products under a price support program totaled 809 million pounds during the first 10 months of the current marketing year ending April 1.

This compared with 689 million pounds in the like period a year earlier.

The increase in the extra supplies reflects a new upturn in milk production that exceeds increases in demand from the nation's growing population.

2 Children Die, 3 Others Hurt In Schoharie Fire

MIDDLEBURG, N.Y. (AP) — Two young children perished early today in a fire that destroyed their home and injured three others of the same family at Hunters Land, a hamlet near this Schoharie County community.

Two-year-old Kenneth L. Mann Jr., and his three-year-old sister, Mary Ellen, died in the fire.

State Police said Kenneth L. Mann, 28, the father, and Mrs. Lorraine Mann, 24, his wife, apparently jumped from the top floor of the two-story frame structure. Mrs. Mann had a two-week old infant, Edith Mae, in her arms, police said.

The mother suffered cut feet, the infant burns about the head, and the father from shock, police said. All were taken to Cobleskill Community Hospital.

State Police said they believed the father awoke and found the house in flames.

An exploding kerosene pot burner stove in the living room may have caused the fire, police said.

Share N. Y. Dais Applause Favors DeSapio, Wagner Attracts Little

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Tammany Hall leader Carmine G. DeSapio, Wednesday night shared a political dais for the first time since the mayor called on DeSapio to quit as New York County (Manhattan) Democratic leader.

The scene was a dinner at the Herbert A. Koehler, Queens County Democratic leader, for his 25 years as a district leader.

Most of the 1,000-odd persons present were district leaders and party workers in Queens.

When DeSapio was introduced, the audience cheered, whistled and applauded until John T. Clancy, Queens borough president who was toastmaster, halted the demonstration by saying: "That's enough — there is no applause meter up here."

When Wagner entered late, he received scattered applause that lasted about 20 seconds but did not reach the intensity of the ovation given DeSapio.

Later when DeSapio was introduced, he was greeted with another ovation, which he cut short by waving his arms and attempting to begin his talk.

When the mayor was introduced, he again received scattered applause.

The mayor announced last Friday that he thought the time had come for DeSapio to resign as Democratic chairman of New York county — a goal which has been sought by the insurgent Democratic movement led by former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman.

Tax Refunds Not Automatic, Form Must Be Sent in

Refund payments of Federal income taxes withheld from wages are paid only upon the filing of a proper Federal income tax return, James A. O'Hara, local district director, today reminded taxpayers.

At the same time O'Hara cautioned against the sending of cash in the mail to pay the 1960 Federal tax.

"Cash in the mail may be lost or misdelivered, en route and taxpayers would have to pay again," O'Hara advised.

"While everyone whose income was $600 or more during 1960 must file a return ($1,200 for those 65 and over)," the tax official stressed, "we find frequent cases of people apparently believing that because their tax withheld was greater than their tax owed, they will automatically get a proper refund."

"Somewhat the same belief is held by students or other young people who worked during a portion of the year and whose taxes were withheld from their salaries or wages. To get a refund, they, too, must file a return, even if such income was under $600."

"For all filers," the director said, "the filing deadline this year is Monday, April 17, because April 15 falls on a Saturday; but those taxpayers entitled to a refund would do well to file as soon as possible."

Ulster County Federal taxpayers should mail their returns to the District Director of Internal Revenue, 161 Washington Avenue, Albany, 1.

Army 1st Lt. Robert A. Harleston, whose wife, Bernice, lives in Olive Bridge, completed the physical security supervision course Jan. 27 at The Provost Marshal General's School, Fort Gordon, Ga.

Lieutenant Harleston received training in the principles, methods and techniques of physical security.

He entered the Army in March 1959.

The 24-year-old officer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Harleston, Sr., 50 Linden Avenue, Hempstead, is a 1953 graduate of Hempstead High School and a 1958 graduate of Howard University in Washington, D. C. He is a member of Omega Psi Phi fraternity.

Oil Convoy Gets Through Clogged Ice-Bound Hudson

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — A mile-long, 10-ship convoy has made its way up the ice-clogged Hudson River and delivered five million gallons of heating oil and gasoline to replenish tanks at three major oil companies.

Despite difficulties with ice packs at a number of points, the last of the tankers unloaded Thursday night.

Point, Newburgh Stops

The oil cargoes came from New York City. The convoy assembled early Thursday off Ossining, south of here, to smash its way upriver. The convoy, with a coast guard icebreaker in the lead, included two tankers, three barges and five tugboats.

The first delivery made about noon at West Point. Later deliveries were made here at Socony Mobil, Tidewater and Texas Co. terminals.

The Coast Guard said one convoy ship, the Socony tanker Plattburgh, would leave here today for New York City with a tugboat escort to pick up another load of oil.

The Coast Guard Thursday night reported the S. S. African Monarch, en route to pick up scrap metal at Albany, was stuck in the ice off Esopus Meadows; and the Spanish grain carrier Rivaluna and the tug John Matton were in trouble in ice near Hudson.

Delay for Convoys

Coast Guard area headquarters in New York City announced a delay in the start of weekly convoys between there and Albany.

The Coast Guard icebreaker Westwind, which was to have led off the first convoy from New York Saturday, reached Albany only Thursday after cutting a path up the river. She is to sail downriver today. One of her tasks will be freeing the Rivaluna.

Start of the first weekly Coast Guard convoy for commercial ships is now scheduled for Sunday or Monday. The convoy will include two freighters, an oil barge and a tugboat.

Wouldn't Miss It

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The father of a Des Moines girl who chose to be married on the afternoon of a regionally important football game took a transistor radio to the church and kept it tuned to the report of the game until he was interrupted by the wedding march.

After the ceremony, he took his position in the reception line — with the radio bringing him the remainder of the play-by-play report of the game.

165,500 Are Unemployed, New Layoffs Coming

Detroit Must Seek New Industry As Autos Are Unsold in Plants

Editor's Note: Detroit is one of the hardest hit industrial areas in the nation. Predominantly automotive, responsible authorities see diversification as the big hope for improved conditions. Nate Polowetzky, assistant general editor of The Associated Press, who is touring the depressed labor areas of the nation, tells of Detroit's fears and hopes in this article, first of a series of two.

By NATE POLOWETZKY
DETROIT (AP)—"I have never been, and am not now, of the feeling that this is a city doomed to die."

KERHONKSON, N. Y.

On that confident note, William B. Sloan, director-secretary of Detroit's Industrial and Commercial Development Committee, sums up his faith in the future of the great auto capital.

His job, basically, is to find ways of attracting new industries to Detroit and create new jobs in an area staggering under the burden of crushing unemployment and the prospect of more to come.

No Hope For Many
It is difficult to be confident. For tens of thousands of men and women the future is without hope. For them the permanent "lay-off" slip has already come and ahead is only hardship and suffering.

Day by day the rolls of unemployed grow and welfare lists increase as cars go unsold and auto firms lay off help in production shutdowns.

Already 165,500 persons are listed as unemployed in the Detroit area according to the latest count—which was outmoded the moment it was compiled. Since then new layoffs—some of which will be permanent—have been announced.

50,000 May Never Go Back
An estimated 50,000 persons are already chronically unemployed—

a conservative figure—probably never to see the inside of an auto plant again, permanent welfare cases.

"Many of these are unskilled, poorly educated people, who came or were brought here from the poorer sections of the South to work in the auto plants during the big boom seven or eight years ago," says one employment official.

"When their jobs were eliminated—for a variety of reasons—they were left behind. Many are now too poor to leave or have strong family ties keeping them here. Many feel 'why should we go back to picking cotton?' Many live on relief or the faint hope that sometime they may get their old jobs back—a faint, faint, almost nonexistent hope."

Factors in Situation

Automation; consolidation of auto firms; the relocation of new and more modern plants outside Detroit and Michigan, closer to new and growing markets and new sources of new materials; changes in defense contracts, away from vehicles to missiles, have been some factors, among many, that has caused permanent employment in the auto industry and will cause more in the future here.

It is feared that even if times get better, as expected, there will not be enough re-employment to make an appreciable dent in the lists of the unemployed in Detroit.

Other Plants Decline

And as the industry changes, others tied to it decline. Many foundries and stamping plants have shut down or reduced work forces. Mines supplying ore to steel plants servicing the industry have also been hurt.

Some 320,000 persons are now out of work in Michigan with the list growing daily.

The illness has spread to other businesses in Detroit.

1959 Decline Continues

Said an executive of a variety chain store, whose customers best reflect the worker-consumer: "Our business began to decline starting in May 1959 and is continuing to do so."

Said another spokesman for the same firm: "This decline in auto employment is reflected in our own job applications. Some years ago we were hiring people we knew we shouldn't have hired but had to because we couldn't get help. Now we are swamped with applications for all kinds of jobs from the lowest sales clerk to managers."

Must Diversify

The solution to Detroit's future? Like so many other cities in the United States tied to a single, dominant industry, Detroit's planners are seeking diversification.

"We want to build an umbrella over the automotive industry," says Sloan, whose committee is only one of several working on the problem.

"We'd rather have 1,000 firms employing 100 persons each in our diversification than one firm employing 100,000."

But he added rapidly: "If we got an industry employing 100,000 we wouldn't turn them down."

Good Sites Lacking

Already under way or in the planning stage are dozens of redevelopment programs to clear blighted areas and to give a new and more attractive look to the city.

But Detroit is cramped by a lack of good industrial sites.

Sloan is confident new industries will come into the city to rescue Detroit.

But even so, the average unemployed auto worker, especially the older one, sees little hope for himself, even in good times.

Next: The story of Muskegon's trials.

Dutchess Party Leaders Favor Early Primary

A primary election in August would allow ample time for candidates to discuss all issues and inform voters of their qualifications, said Dutchess County Republican Chairman Robert Blinn, Amenia.

Democratic County Chairman Joseph F. Hawkins said he would welcome a June primary because, in his opinion, that would leave more time for party candidates to get acquainted with the voters of the county.

Blinn said he is not in favor of campaigns which stretch over too long a period. He stated he felt that an August primary would be a good compromise.

Senators Favor 4-State Compact

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of senators proposed today the creation of a four-state compact for development of water resources of the Delaware River in which the government would be a full partner.

The participating states would be Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Delaware.

Principal sponsors of the bipartisan bill are Sens. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., and Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., directors of the Water Research Foundation for the Delaware River Basin. The foundation initiated studies leading to the proposed compact.

Other cosponsors, all from the four states concerned, include Republican Sens. Jacob K. Javits, and Kenneth B. Keating, both of New York.

Governors of the four states and the mayors of Philadelphia and New York have approved the agreement. It also requires approval of the legislatures of the four states.

The compact differs from previous interstate agreements in including the government as a partner. Previous compacts merely

Florence Richmond, Chautauqua Leader, Dies in N. Y. Hospital

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Florence Rebecca Langworthy Richmond, 77, of Chautauqua, N.Y., a leader of the Chautauqua Institution, died Wednesday in St. Luke's Hospital.

She was the widow of Julian Richmond, president of the Pot De Vin Machine Co. of Teterboro, N.J.

Mrs. Richmond attended Allegheny College and was graduated from Drexel Institute. She conducted a class in writing at Chautauqua and established the Bell Tower Scholarship for English speaking Union exchange students to spend summers at Chautauqua. She was the author of two books: "Chautauqua: An American Place," and "A Woman of Texas; a biography of Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker."

have required the government's assent.

The compact would create a five-member commission consisting of the four governors and an appointee of the President to plan the multi-purpose use of the water of the basin, which drains 12,750 square miles and serves the domestic and industrial needs of 16 million people in the four states.

The commission would have authority over flood control, water supply, pollution control, hydroelectric power production where feasible, recreation, fish and wildlife improvement, soil conservation, forests and watershed management. Navigation would remain the exclusive concern of the government.

Works Employes Not to Receive Overtime Pay Now

Employees of the department of public works will not receive time and a half payment for overtime work.

At a special meeting of the village board Tuesday night, it was announced that the village can not pay overtime to employees of that department unless the necessary sum had been allotted in the budget a year ago.

Monday night William Voerg, superintendent of public works, appeared before the board at its regular meeting and requested overtime payment for his department. A check with the state department of audit and control revealed that such payment could not be made to employees or to Superintendent Voerg.

The board indicated that workers would be compensated for overtime when the new budget goes into effect in June. The budget will also include an increase for superintendent of public works.

Mayor George P. Holmes stressed that Route 32 and Route 9W run through the village and Ulster Avenue, Partition and Market Streets are cleared of snow by the state rather than village crews.

Profit Planning To Be Discussed In Business Class

ROBERT WALDEN

The fourth meeting of the small business management course will be held at Saugerties High School Tuesday evening, Feb. 14. At the meeting Robert Walden, manager of Jo-Ann Company, Schenectady, will discuss expense control and profit planning with business men of the Saugerties area.

Walden is president of the Schenectady Merchants' Bureau and a member of the board of directors of the Schenectady Chamber of Commerce. He has a BS degree from the University of Indiana where he majored in economics and minored in accounting. Walden is also a graduate of the School of Retailing, New York University.

At the last session of the course the topic of Credit and Collections was discussed by Thomas O. Murphy, manager of the Credit Bureau of Poughkeepsie.

The course, consisting of a series of five discussions dealing with problems of concern to owners and managers of retail businesses, is sponsored by the Saugerties Central School's Adult Education Program in cooperation with the Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce.

Adult Education Classes Underway

The second-semester evening classes of the Saugerties Central School's adult education program began during the week of Jan. 30. Approximately 200 adults from the Saugerties area are presently receiving instruction in fifteen different courses.

Courses which meet Monday evenings include typing for beginners, taught by Milton Sommers; office practice, Miss Marion Stay; beginning and intermediate sewing, Mrs. Floyd Smith; and beginners' welding, Charles Schumacher.

Courses meeting on Thursday evenings and their instructors include conversational Russian, Mrs. Edward Zietek; English for foreign-born adults, Patrick Buonfiglio; drawing and sketching, Eugene LaPlante; elementary and intermediate oil painting, Eugene LaPlante; reupholstering, Fritz Trams; stenocript

ABC shorthand, Miss Marion Stay; Gregg shorthand refresher course, Patrick Rodden; and first aid, Miss Audrey Grant.

A course to prepare adults to take the New York State High School Equivalency Tests is taught by Robert Moser and meets Monday and Thursday evenings.

The small business management course, offered to local businessmen through the cooperation of the Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce, meets Tuesday evenings at the high school.

The next course in driver education will be offered about July 1. Anyone interested in joining one of the classes or in starting a new class may contact Kenneth Lane, assistant director, at the high school.

Girl Scouts Sponsor Camp Essay Contest

The Saugerties Neighborhood Association of Girl Scouts is sponsoring an essay contest which it invites all Girl Scouts of the area to enter.

The contest will run through Feb. 27, and the winners will be announced at the conclusion of Girl Scout Week, March 12 through 18. A party will be held that night and the judges will give their decision and present awards for the best in each of three categories.

The girls may choose their essay topic from these three titles: Why I Like Weekend Camping, Why I Like Two-Week Camping, or Why I Would Like to Go Camping. All essays should be completed and given to the troop leaders by Feb. 27.

Rotary Club Schedules Ladies Night Feb. 14

Plans for the ladies night of the Rotary Club were discussed at Tuesday night's meeting at the Stonewall Restaurant.

Peter Murphy, chairman of the event, announced that the dinner will start at 7 p. m., Feb. 14, at the Stonewall, and entertainment for the evening will be provided by Stefan Lokos, violinist of High Woods. Lokos will also have an interesting story to relate on his trip from Hungary to America.

Morris Rosenblum and Ronald Johnson will aid Murphy with the plans. Gifts will be presented to the Rotarians' ladies at the dinner.

Ralph Ricketson, president, presided over the board of directors meeting following Tuesday's regular meeting. Guests present were Larry Bogert of the Kingston club and Ronald D. Johnson Jr. of Oakledge Park.

Cub Pack 38 Receives Charter and New Flag

The presentation of a new 50 star flag to Cub Pack 38 by the Daughters of America was the highlight of the annual blue and gold dinner at the Dutch Reformed Church hall Friday evening, Miss Hilda Van Etten on behalf of the organization presented the flag to Fred Rose, committee chairman of the pack.

The new charter for the year was also received. Kenneth Magyar, district commissioner, presented it to the Rev. Carl Hiestra, institutional representative.

AN INDEFINITE LUNCH INVITATION

Question: A friend of mine invited me to lunch but did not set a definite day. She merely said that whenever I had a free day and was in the city, to call and she would take me to lunch. I plan on going to the city some day next week and would like to know if it would be proper to call her and remind her of her lunch invitation. I am sure her invitation was sincere but somehow I just don't feel right about calling her and "inviting myself to lunch." Will you please advise me what to do.

Answer: If she is someone you know well, you may properly call her and say that you are coming into town next Wednesday and ask her if she will be free to see you. She will then most likely ask you to lunch with her.

Replying to Wedding Invitation

Question: Will you please tell me how to reply to an invitation that includes both the bride's and groom's parents' names? I have received such an invitation and am at a loss as to how to word my reply.

Answer: A wedding invitation with both the bride's and the groom's parents names is not conventionally correct in this country. However, since the invitation you received did word both, your reply would be worded as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith accept with pleasure
Mr. and Mrs. Brown's
and
Mr. and Mrs. Green's kind invitation for date

Thanking Friends for Drinks

Question: When at a supper club and some friends seated at a nearby table order drinks sent to our table with their compliments, how does one show proper appreciation? Is it necessary to buy drinks for them in return?

Answer: When you "catch their eye" you raise your glass toward them framing with your mouth the words, "thank you very much" and take a sip of the drink. It is not necessary to buy drinks for them in return. The Emily Post Institute is sorry it cannot answer personal mail.

Lent Through History

The Lenten season is packed with extraordinary historical footnotes, not all of them Biblical. For example that tasty morsel, the pretzel, is an offshoot of an ancient Lenten diet and the modern housewife's spring cleaning marathon originated hundreds of years ago as a pre-Easter ritual with a purpose more religious than sanitary. Further footnotes remind us that the state of Florida indirectly owes its name to Palm Sunday, and that many of the most delicious fish recipes we enjoy today are based on dishes invented eons ago in honor of the forty days of abstinence before Easter.

The pretzel, regarded now as an appetizing tidbit, had a religious significance in the early Roman Empire. The Lenten diet of those times was far more strict than today's and the ban included all dairy products. Since eggs, milk and dairy fats were forbidden during the forty day fast, a meager dough of flour, salt and water was used to make the pretzel which was shaped to resemble two arms folded in prayer. Such special Lenten breads were named bracciae or "little arms." From this Latin term, many centuries afterward, came the German word brezel which ultimately was Anglicized into pretzel. As tidbits go, the pretzel's popularity is now world-wide but nonetheless it is just an edible Johnny-come-lately.

As to spring cleaning, modern husbands—often known to vanish at the mere mention of such shenanigans—have Lent to thank for this annual domestic dust storm. Though the plunge into spring cleaning is no longer observed on any particular date (just whenever the urge hits the housewife), for most European householders it was once a three-day session which began immediately after Palm Sunday. In Slavic countries, especially, every stick of furniture was removed from the home, thoroughly cleaned out of doors, and then the house itself was scrubbed and scoured, swept and polished from top to bottom. By Wednesday the furniture was put back in place, everything settled down to normal and the house gleamed in readiness for Easter. Here Christian custom had actually borrowed from ancient Jewish faith which demanded a similar ritual of cleaning the home before the Feast of Passover.

The naming of the state of Florida is attributed to a Spanish term for Palm Sunday dating back to the Sixteenth Century. Real palm branches weren't always available in Europe in olden times and even today, in sections of the Continent and in parts of England, other plants are used on Palm Sunday. Olive branches are substituted in Italy, for instance, and in other countries such diverse plants as spruce, pussywillow, box and yew are employed. These different branches, frequently interspersed with flowers, decorated with ribbon and fastened to a stick, are called palm bouquets whether actual palm is present or not. In centuries past it was customary to bless not only the branches but the blossoms as well and in many lands the day was known as Flower Sunday. The French called it Pasques Fleuris, the Spanish referred to it as Pascua Florida, a term which eventually came to mean the whole of Easter Week. On Easter Sunday in 1513 when Ponce de Leon first sighted our present day state of Florida, he gave it the name in honor of the greatest of all church holidays.

The traditions of Lent have changed greatly with the passing of time. The practices of fasting and self-denial have been greatly relaxed since the austere demands of the early Christian church. Fasting was at one time the most literal of abstinences and the very devout would not eat a mouthful of food nor take even a swallow of water for two days between Good Friday and Easter Sunday. Pope Gregory the First defined Lent as the "spiritual tithing of the year" and his dictate that Christians eat only once a day throughout Lent was faithfully kept for hundreds of years. It was not until medieval times that the Church changed this law to include a second daily meal and the original ban on dairy products during Lent was not lifted until 1918.

Four KHS Seniors Are Finalists in 1961 National Merit Scholarship Program

Four seniors at Kingston High School have been named finalists in the 1960-61 National Merit Scholarship Program competition and have been awarded Certificates of Merit.

Principal M. Clifford Miller announced that the following students have received the Certificates which attest to their high academic promise:

James A. Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar H. Lawrence of 19 Abruyn Street; Sheila Plunket, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Plunket of 316 Washington Avenue; Peggy Ann Starkman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Starkman of Boice's Lane, and J. Andrea Jacobson, daughter of Mrs. Regina Schreiber of 57 Sawkill Road, RD 2, Kingston.

The seniors attained Finalist status by their distinguished performance on two tests and upon endorsement by their high school. About six-tenths of one per cent of the seniors in each state received the awards. Approximately 9,800 students in the 50 states and in United States territories were honored.

"The Certificate of Merit winners represent our most valuable national resource, our talented youth," said John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. "These exceptionally able students deserve the recognition and encouragement of every citizen concerned with the future of America."

The Merit Scholars, to be announced April 27, 1961, will be selected from the Finalist group. They will receive scholarships from the resources of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and from sponsoring business corporations, foundations, associations and individuals. In 1950-60, 115 sponsors participated in the Merit Program.

The names of all who achieved semi-finalist status in the competition were published in a booklet which was then distributed to colleges and other sources of scholarships and financial aid. Previous experience indicates that more than half of the Finalists will be offered assistance from sources other than the Merit Program.

Recipients of National Merit Scholarships and some sponsored scholarships are chosen by a Selection Committee composed of experts in academic selection. Recipients of other sponsored scholarships are chosen by special judging teams convened by the sponsors of those scholarships. High-school grades, recommendations by high school officials, leadership, citizenship, and extra-curricular activities are considered as well as test scores.

Merit Scholarships are four-year awards, and carry stipends that range from $100 a year to $1500 a year. Each stipend is individually determined on the basis of need. The amount is based upon family resources, summer earnings, and college costs, all of which vary for each winner.

Most Merit Scholarships also are accompanied by grants to the colleges. Each student chooses his college and course of study. Gaining admission to college is the responsibility of the student.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation was established in 1955 through grants from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The current program is the sixth that has been conducted. There are 3,132 Merit Scholars enrolled in 391 colleges in the current academic year, and 491 Merit Scholars have been graduated.

The seventh program will begin in March, when the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test will be given in the participating high schools. More than 15,000 high schools participated in the 1960-61 program.

THE REFEREE PROBLEM

Basketball officials in the Mid Hudson Valley are seeking a new deal from area scholastic leagues. Basically, the officials want four men to work the high school doubleheaders, with those doing the jayvee games getting $8 each and those working the varsity tilts being paid $15 each.

This would cost the school an extra $10 each night. The current rate is $18 for each referee and he works both jayvee and varsity games. The proposed rate would cost schools $46.

THE PLAN HAS MERITS

We are in favor of this plan. In the first place, the younger and probationary officials would be given the needed experience of working games under fire. The big complaint the schools give for not hiring an official is that he hasn't had the experience. How else can he obtain that experience except by working jayvee games?

Another strong point in favor of the plan is the different conditions existing in high school games today. Whereas a few years back the game was slow and deliberate, rarely do you see a team that scores less than 60 points, runs up and down the court like Citation and shoots with fantastic rapidity.

IT'S WORTH A TRY

If two referees, under the existing conditions, have a trying time working a jayvee game, plain common sense tells that their reflexes are not as sharp for the feature game, they are slower in getting up and down the court and their tempers are at a much finer edge.

The schools can't lose anything by trying this proposal on a trial basis. It could turn out to be one of the best moves made in an attempt to get some better officiated contests.

WILL IT BE ADOPTED?

We don't think so, at least not by most of the leagues. Since there's money involved in the proposal, many of the schools will not even consider the plan. If the referees can't get it through this time, we hope they try again next year because there has to be something done before too long.

New and bigger courts, increased basketball patronage on the part of the students and adults and many changes in the rules demand only the best from the officials. Their best can only come when they are fresh, not worn out after working a tough jayvee game before hostile fans in a packed gymnasium. After all, football officials and baseball umpires can't work two games back to back. The same rule should apply to basketball.

SOME QUICK COMMENTS

If Newburgh Free Academy doesn't win the DUSO basketball title this season, prospects are excellent it will win the next time around — four of the first six players are juniors. The only seniors are Gus Lander and Jack Wolpe. . . . Billy Gray, the Middletown center built like a beanstalk, is one of the most promising sophomores in the area. He's averaging 20 points a game and is getting better. . . . Poughkeepsie High swimmers had their first home meet in history last week and they were beaten by Newburgh, 65-19, at the Bridge City YMCA pool. . . . Speaking of Poughkeepsie, Sam J. Kalloch will be making another appearance tomorrow when he brings his cage team to the Kate Walton Field House. It's always worth the price of admission just to see Sam operate. You know it will be a tough ball game and tomorrow night will be no exception. See you there.

Visitors Need A Win to Stay In DUSO Chase

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Sam J. Kalloch will be making his umpteenth appearance here tomorrow night as he brings his Poughkeepsie High School basketball quintet to the Kate Walton Field House for a DUSO League engagement with Kingston. The varsity game will get underway at 8 p. m., following a 6:30 jayvee contest between the schools.

This traditional rivalry has been flavored with many unusual happenings over the years and there have been countless memorable games but none more so than the meeting in December at Poughkeepsie. For those who have forgotten, Kingston won the contest, 73-71, and it took a 40 point performance by Joe Uhl to turn the trick.

A Must Game

For Poughkeepsie, the game is a must one. The visitors are having trouble defending their conference crown and a loss tomorrow would just about sink them. They will also be playing without Steve Albrecht and Jim Gordon. Those two great athletes were graduated last week and their eligibility is up.

The Pioneers stopped Liberty, 66-64, on Tuesday and they did it without the two graduated stars. A promising newcomer—Art Atkins—grabbed the spotlight with 21 points and another benchwarmer during the first half of the season—Jimmy Flowers—added 15 to the cause.

The solid veteran is Tyrone Elting, a husky 6-2 lead under a deadly jump shot. He fouled out in the first meeting between the clubs and he had only four points. However, when Elting is on, Poughkeepsie is tough to stop.

League lists for the visitors have been scored over Monticello, Newburgh and Liberty while they have lost to Kingston, Middletown and Liberty. The team has also won over Roosevelt and Wappingers Falls for an overall mark of 5-3. Whether the loss of those two players will hurt will be seen as the season progresses. One thing is certain, Kalloch and his cagers will draw their usual big crowd. Sam is not the best liked coach in the league, but he's always interesting to observe.

How to Stop Uhl

Of main concern to the round PHS mentor is how to put the clamp on Uhl. Gordon failed to stop him in the game at Poughkeepsie and he was the best defense player on the team.

Even if Uhl is stopped, prospects are good that somebody else on the Maroon team will break loose. In their earlier meeting with the Pioneers, only Uhl and Mike Ferraro were able to score consistently. Ferraro is still hitting the nets but he has had help in recent starts from Vince Smedes and Al Brown.

With the others chipping in, Uhl doesn't have the great pressure on him as before. However, he's still the one to stop if the visitors expect to go home with a win. It should be interesting to see who will get the assignment in the man-to-man defense employed by Kalloch.

Mike Is Consistent

Coach John Gilligan has been pleased with the consistency shown by Ferraro, the club's best outside shooter. Only a junior, he's been on a hot streak and bears watching.

Smedes has been shooting well and is rough on the offensive boards. Brown came alive against Port Jervis after some poor performances. John Duffner and John Falvey have shared the job at center and each has made a contribution to the overall success of the club.

After the game with Poughkeepsie, home tilts remain with Our Lady of Lourdes and Monticello and then big road attractions at Newburgh and Middletown complete the regular season schedule.

Syracuse Seeks Funds From Fans To Join League

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The "real money" still is lacking to finance Syracuse in the International Baseball League but Don Labruzzo says he expects fans will come to the rescue at a rally Friday night.

Labruzzo, tapped as general manager of the new IL entry, admitted Wednesday that financial leaders so far have been conspicuously absent as purchasers of stock.

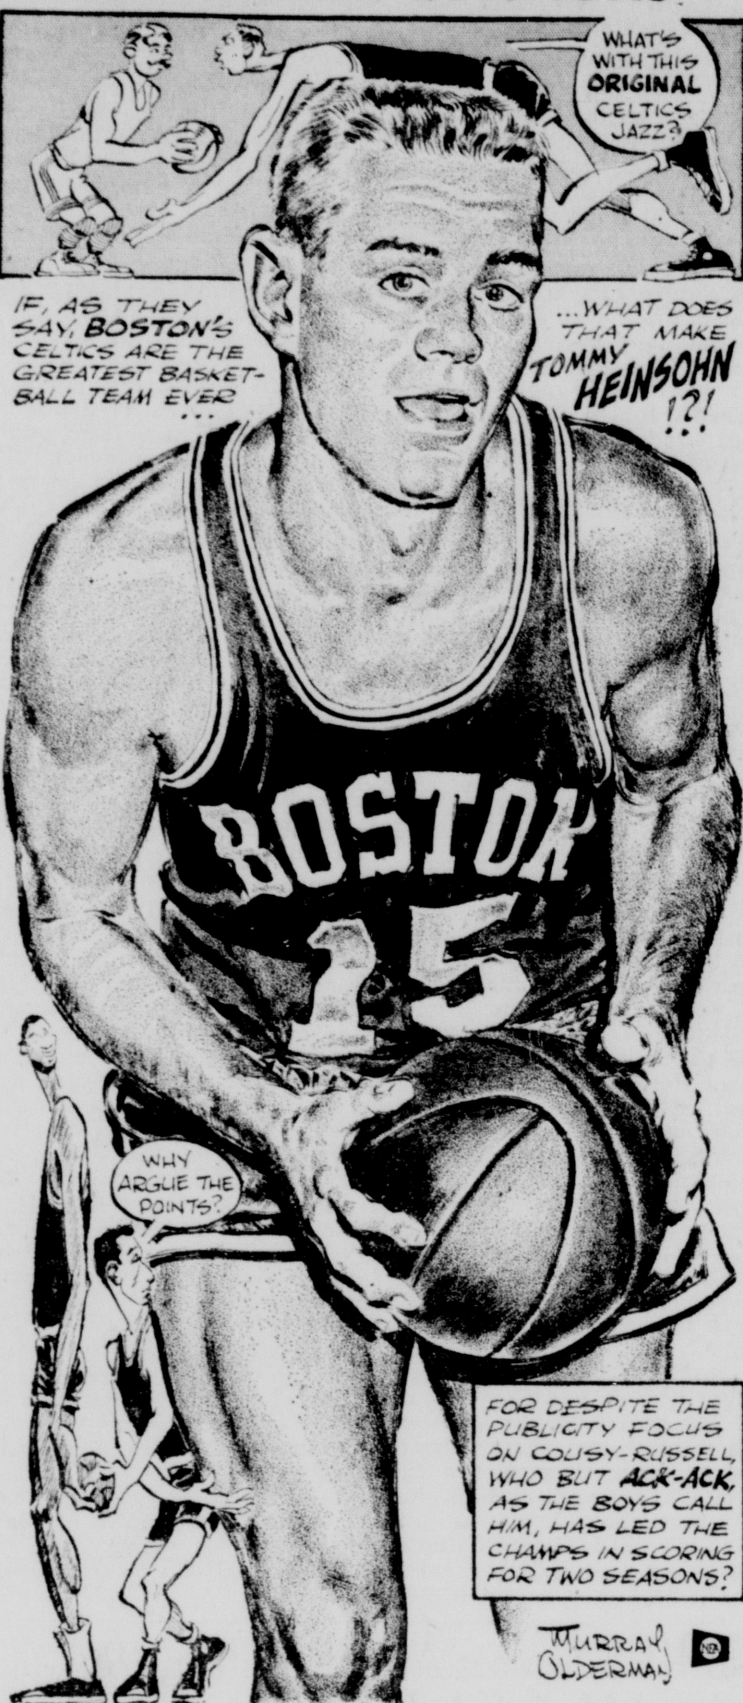

Fans at the rally in the War Memorial Auditorium will be asked to buy stock, season tickets or blocks of tickets. Labruzzo said 300 to 500 rooters should turn out.

In any event, Syracuse will have a team when the league opens the season April 18. The home opener is April 21, against Columbus. An original league stipulation that Syracuse raise $100,000 in stock and pledge another $100,000 in tickets was waived. The new Minnesota Twins of the American League, which has a working agreement with Syracuse, and the IL is expected to help out financially if the community-owned club fails at the gate.

The club, which probably will be known as the Chiefs, was incorporated yesterday as the Community Baseball Club of Central New York. Frank Barry, an oil dealer, is president.

Season to Open April 10 With Two New Teams

BOSTON (AP)—The expanded American League opens its 60th baseball season April 10 when it welcomes two new franchises and also—it hopes — President Kennedy to its year of "firsts."

The 1961 schedule announced today by American League President Joe Cronin lists the traditional opener at Washington with Chicago providing the opposition.

While Griffith's Stadium will provide a familiar surrounding and the name "Washington Senators" a familiar ring, the franchise is new. So is the Los Angeles entry.

What fans knew last season as the Washington club has moved its bats, gloves and business aspirations to Minnesota's twin cities, Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Conditions permitting, President Kennedy—noted for his keen interest in athletics—will keynote the AL year of change by throwing out the first pitch for the first time.

The American League boasts these other firsts:

1. First major circuit to move to 10 teams, a year in advance of the National League target date for the addition of New York and Houston.

2. Increase of the team schedules from 154 to 162 games.

3. First regular scheduling of two-night doubleheaders. Previously two-night doubleheaders were allowed only as makeups for postponed games.

Unlike 1960 when the AL started a week later than the National, the two get underway together this season with the Washington inaugural a day in advance of all other action.

Tuesday, April 11, the Minnesota twins are at New York and Los Angeles is at Baltimore.

The schedule lists 376 single night games ranging from 55 at Kansas City and 54 at Los Angeles down to 22 each at Boston and Detroit.

The first All Star game is slated for San Francisco's National League park July 11 and the second at Boston July 31.

Niagara Wallops Syracuse 74-52 Paced by Butler

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Niagara University, after gaining its 12th victory in 14 games at the expense of a hapless Syracuse University basketball team, moved a little closer today to a post-season tourney bid.

Niagara, led by Al Butler, 21 points, walloped visiting Syracuse Wednesday night, 74-52. It was even a bad night for Syracuse's star, Pete Chudny, who was held to one field goal.

The Orangemen went down to defeat for the 12th time in 14 games. Niagara led at halftime, 34-29.

In games involving other Upstate teams, the scores were: Colgate 46, Siena 38; LeMoyne 86, Ithaca 65; Cortland State 77, Oswego 67; Wesleyan 58, Union 49; Alfred 88, St. Lawrence 69; and Villanova, 108, Canisius 77.

Cornell Skaters Nip Colgate Raiders 6-4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cornell held on during a powerful Colgate surge Wednesday night and defeated the Red Raiders, 6-4, in a hockey game at Hamilton.

Cornell jumped to a 4-0 lead in the first period. In the third period, however, Colgate suddenly collected four goals and tied the game. John Giles, a double scorer, scored Cornell's fifth goal at 11:48 in the third period.

With 34 seconds left, Bob McKee added an insurance goal.

Cornell now has a record of 4-11. Colgate has won 5 of 18 games. In one other game Wednesday, Army's hockey team tied an Academy scoring record, defeating Hamilton College 14-0.

Holly Defeats Sangaline In Pockets Match, 125-120

Dave Holly established himself as tournament favorite with a 125-120 victory over Charlie Sangaline in the city pocket billiard championships last night.

Off to a sensational start, Holly ran up a 94-51 lead, but Sangaline bounced back with a run of 38 to close the gap to 94-89.

Holly forged ahead, 123-101, but Sangaline had victory in his grasp when he missed a tough break shot that scattered the balls and enabled Holly to rack up what he needed. Holly's best string was 15.

In tonight's match at the Uptown Billiard Parlor, Pete Wolff meets Tom Howard.

Olympic Mile Sled Record Beaten 12 Times in Trials

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) —

Practice sessions speedier than the real thing ended today as competitors for the world two-man bobsled championship awaited the draw for the weekend competition.

The record for the mile-long Olympic run on Mt. Van Hoevenberg was bettered 12 times in the first three days of practice and improved racing conditions forecast more of the same before Friday draws.

The course will be closed Friday for final maintenance, and Royal Tallman, run superintendent, promised between a half inch and an inch of loose snow will cover the ice run for the official competition on Saturday and Sunday. Bobsledders have complained week about excess snow, despite the sensational unofficial times.

Wednesday the 1:12 mark of Italy's Eugenio Monti was bettered five times.

Monti did it three days straight, though his 1:11:24 Wednesday couldn't match the 1:09:05 of Tuesday, or Monday's 1:10:48. Surprisingly, Monti didn't mention the snow, but blamed himself for what he termed "very bad performances."

"I was driving like a beginner," he said. "I made only one good run, and that is bad. I was just not any good."

Monti was joined in the sub-record timing Wednesday by teammate Sergio Zardini, who twice was clocked in 1:11:55; Swiss Hans Zoller, in 1:11:48; and Franz Schelle of Germany, in 1:11:87.

Danbury Teachers Stop State, 83 to 66

Dillman Hits 26 for Hawks

State University's budding streak came a cropper last night, 83-66, at the hands of a strong Danbury (Conn.) Teachers quintet on the New Paltz board.

Coach Charlie Wolbers' Hawks, who had survived the rigors of last weekend's terrible weather to score two impressive victories in Canada, faltered in the closing stages against the Nutmegers.

It looked like another impressive New Paltz victory when the Hawks bolted to a 17-4 lead in the early minutes but by half-time the visitors had moved ahead 39-35.

New Paltz reached its crest in the second half at the 48-40 mark but after that it was all Danbury. The loss was the ninth in 15 games for the Hawks who travel to Oneonta State Friday night.

Dillman Hits 26

Bob Dillman of New Paltz took game scoring honors with 26 points, but was the only Hawk in double figures.

Roland potted 18 for Danbury, with three others in double figures: Gorman 17, Gregory 10 and Rett 13.

Situation Critical

Windham, Early Flood Area, Has Water Shortage

The Greene County mountain-top village of Windham which was hit hard last September by floods when Hurricane Donna struck, is now suffering from a water shortage. Paul Kondras, water superintendent, calls the situation "critical."

Constantly running faucets in order to keep water pipes from freezing in the sub-zero weather has drained the reservoir. The reservoir, spring fed, was reported down to nine inches and any really heavy emergency demand would leave the village in serious situation.

Work is now going on to link the community reservoir with its reserve reservoir located east of the village. This work will be completed in a few days.

In Hensonville, a few miles from Windham, a break in a water main under Route 296 in front of the post office was repaired Wednesday and service was restored. Deep frost broke the water main about a week ago.

Because of low water supply, Hunter has been taking water from Schoharie Creek for about a week. Many homes in the area have had frozen lines due to the deep freeze recently and failure to keep the faucets dripping to prevent freezing, a water official said.

RR Unions Tell Their Side on 'Feather Bedding'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five railroad operating unions have begun a lengthy presentation of their side of the so-called "featherbedding" issue before a presidential study commission.

The unions began outlining their position Wednesday to the 15-man commission headed by former secretary of labor James P. Mitchell. The railroads already have spent three days presenting their opening statement.

The railroads said antiquated work rules, and what has been called "featherbedding" or needless employment of certain workers, has cost the industry $600 million a year. The unions deny featherbedding, but have said some work and pay practices may be outmoded to some extent. However, they contend railroad workers lack many of the overtime, holiday, and shorter work week benefits enjoyed in other industries.

The Mitchell commission is made up of equal numbers of representatives of the public, the unions and the railroads. It has a year to work out the complex problem, but hopes to get both sides together before then.

The unions are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Firemen, Conductors, Brakemen and Switchmen.

So far the unions have proposed shorter work weeks more in line with other industries, away-from-home living allowances, more overtime provisions, a 35-hour week for yard service employees, and premium pay for night and holiday work.

The unions indicated they would stand firm against the carriers' proposal to eliminate the fireman aboard diesel locomotives as unnecessary. The unions say a second crewman in the cab is needed for safety.

The tone of the unions' presentation so far has been that they are willing to negotiate some changes in work rules but expect work and pay improvements in return.

Assembly Votes Two Wilson Bills

Two bills sponsored by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County have been passed by the State Assembly, it was learned today.

One bill increases the amount an individual assessor may certify for damages caused by dogs to domestic animals—$150 to $200.

It took cognizance of the fact that the previous maximum allowance was deemed insufficient to compensate owners for damage to certain domestic animals, such as cows, without approval by more than one assessor.

A second bill classifies pheasants raised in captivity under license from the State Conservation Department as domestic animals. Classified as domestic animals, compensation for damage to them by dogs may be claimed by owners.

It is explained that there is an increase in the number of pheasants being raised in captivity and the demand for compensation for damages caused by dogs has been considerable.

Carle to Install JOUAM on Friday

Formal installation services for newly-elected officers of Charles DeWitt Council, 91, JOUAM, will be held Friday night at Mechanics' Hall, 14 Henry Street, at 8 o'clock.

Deputy Harry Carle of Saugerties will be the installing officer.

The new officers include: Edwin B. Schultz, counselor; Claude Middagh, vice-counselor; Charles M. Lord, recording secretary and treasurer; E. B. Schultz, financial secretary; Alfred R. Thomas, warden; Vincent Markle, conductor; Frank Burr, inside sentinel and trustee; George Wells, outside sentinel; Andrew Lamberton Jr., past counselor and Raymond Whitebeck, chaplain.

A full attendance of members is expected for this annual ceremony.

A social hour with refreshments will follow.

Teacher's Trial Set for Apr. 17 At Poughkeepsie

Trial of a suspended Arlington Junior High school teacher has been set by Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwartz for April 17 but it has not been definitely decided whether a jury will hear the case.

Gabriel Deeb was indicted last March 14 on 24 counts charging him with morals offenses involving eight boy students.

Edward A. Miller, defense attorney, told Judge Schwartz yesterday that former Putnam County Judge John P. Donohoe had granted a defense motion severing the first three counts from the other 21 counts. Miller said he will make a motion later seeking dismissal of those counts.

U.S. Is Closing Gap in Missiles, Russell Claims

WINDER, Ga. (AP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, says Russia is ahead of the United States in the missile race, but "we are rapidly closing the gap."

Home for a brief visit, Russell said Wednesday that he is not as concerned over the U. S. missile lag as some of his Democratic colleagues in Congress.

The "United States has the world's most powerful weapon, the Polaris submarine, and the world's most effective striking force, the Strategic Air Command," Russell said.

"Neither we nor the Russians have developed missiles to the point where we would be willing to risk millions of the lives of our own people to use them. You can't always depend on a missile. But we've perfected the airplane to the point where you can just about always depend on them."

And the Georgia lawmaker said he thinks the United States has a stronger air force than Russia. Russell rejected a report from a high Pentagon source—a report denied by President Kennedy—that no missile gap exists.

"There's no question a missile gap does exist," Russell said. "Russia is ahead of us in that she has more powerful rocket engines, engines with more powerful thrust."

Damage Reported To Peach Crops

Assistant Dutchess County Agent Willard Roubal said Wednesday that sub-zero temperatures in late January apparently killed off most peach buds in some orchards in the county and left temporary or permanent damage in lesser degrees to other fruits.

Mr. Roubal said examination of 287 peach buds taken from an orchard near Poughkeepsie showed no survival. He said the buds were taken from a low area where the orchard had poor air drainage.

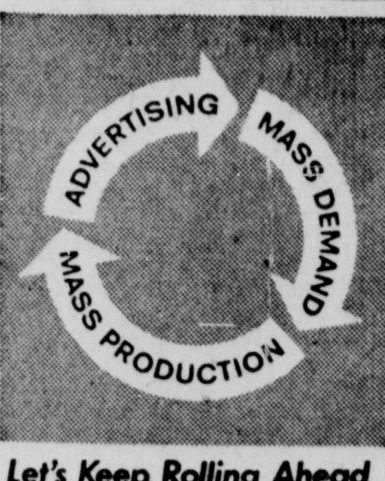

Roubal reported that samples taken from the Red Hook-Tivoli area, where the lowest temperature this winter has been 23 degrees below zero in comparison with Poughkeepsie's 30 below, showed survival ranging between two and eight per cent, while in Millbrook the survival ranged from 10 to 25 per cent.

Youth for Christ Rally Scheduled Saturday Night

"Operation Abolition," a film on the infiltration of Communism into the American way of life, will be the highlight on the program presented by Hudson Valley Youth for Christ Saturday evening. The film was recently released by the Committee on Un-American Activities in the United States House of Representatives.

Along with the showing of the film will be a dramatic presentation, message and teen talent participating in the musical program. The rally will be held at the Poughkeepsie Grange Hall, Manchester Road. All teenagers may attend.

The rally which begins at 7:30 p. m., will be preceded by a spaghetti dinner at 6 p. m. A Valentine theme will prevail and special entertainment will be provided. Reservations may be made by contacting the Youth for Christ office, Red Hook.

Freight Train Derailed

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP) — An Erie-Lackawanna Railroad freight train was derailed near this northwestern Pennsylvania town early today.

Police said about 25 to 30 cars were derailed at Saegertown, about five miles north of Meadville. No one was reported injured.

Cause of the derailment was not learned immediately. Officials said a small fire broke out in a refrigerator car but was put out before it did much damage.

The train was en route to Meadville from Salamanca, N.Y., just across the Pennsylvania state line.

Odd-Jobs Man Is Accused of Three Peekskill Fires

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — A young odd-jobs man has been accused of setting three major fires in the city's business district in recent years.

Picked up after his own home suffered slight damage Wednesday in a fire was William Crookston, 22.

Detective Sgt. James Nelson said Crookston admitted setting a small paper fire in his home and then admitted causing office-store building fires in 1959 and 1960, with an estimated half-million-dollar damages. No one was injured in the blazes.

Crookston was charged with first and second degree arson, and held for appearance today in Peekskill City Court.

Chilly Escape

HONG KONG (AP) — Hiding in the frozen meat compartment of a train, nine youths escaped from Communist China to this British colony so chilled they could not talk. They suffered no serious effects from their journey.

Pill Overdose Blamed

LONDON (AP) — Moyra Fraser, 37, former star of the Sadler's Wells ballet company, was hospitalized today after an overdose of sleeping pills. Doctors said she would recover.

Naples Is Under Police Patrol in Wake of Rioting

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Steel-helmeted police patrolled downtown Naples today after a night of rioting by 4,000 commuters left stranded by a snap transport strike called at the height of the homework rush.

Streetscars and buses to and from the suburbs reappeared on this morning. The transit company re-instated 17 employees whose suspension had caused the strike, and the other workers went back to their jobs.

There were no new disorders. Repair crews started hauling away burned-out wrecks of streetcars and buses fired by angry commuters in a burning, window-smashing rampage Wednesday night through the heart of this teeming industrial center of a million people—Italy's third largest city.

The transit workers had called a two-hour work stoppage Wednesday afternoon as a demonstration for higher wages but it was supposed to end at 5:30 p. m. When the company suspended 17 workers for insubordination, the others walked off the job at the height of the rush hour, leaving thousands from the suburbs with no transport home.

Caught off guard, the company tried to set up an emergency service with hired buses. The tired, restless commuters fought among themselves to get on the relatively few buses available and then turned on the police when they intervened in charging riot jeeps.

Seize Rochester Men for $1,000 In Bogus Money

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Three men have been charged with possessing and conspiring to pass counterfeit $20 totaling $1,000.

The men were arrested by agents of the Secret Service Wednesday. They were identified as Dominic Chirico, 32, his brother, Ross 30, and Arthur Visconti, 29, all of Rochester.

The agents said the bogus bills were believed to have been made in a Union City, N.J., print shop, which was raided last December.

Two other Rochester area men were arrested and indicted by a federal grand jury last November on charges of passing more than $180 in fake $20 bills in a suburban shopping center.

Security Picks Up Bombs Sent To Bonn Chiefs

BONN, Germany (AP)—Security officers have intercepted two parcels containing explosives mailed to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss.

An interior ministry spokesman said the identical parcels contained a small black powder charge, another substance that has not yet been analyzed and a fuse rigged to explode when the packages were opened.

The first package — for Adenauer — arrived at the chancellery Saturday. It looked suspicious to the security people and explosives experts opened it.

The bomb for Strauss was intercepted Monday at the Defense Ministry.

Elma Man Killed

CHEEKTOWAGA, N. Y. (AP) — Raymond M. Dickey, 59, of nearby Elma, a mortgage appraisal officer for a Buffalo bank, was killed early today when his automobile ran into the side of a tractor-trailer backing into a loading dock, police said.
